DPW Supt. Cole, Owner of Craft Both
Have Reasons for Asking Public Look

Louis Turck, of 50 North Street, owner of a barge, which figured in a statement Wednesday by Charles J. Cole, public works superintendent, dealing with reported conditions at the Kingston Point lagoon, says the barge will stay, and he contends that the lagoon contains garbage and other refuse.

Cole said the only debris he knows of in the lagoon was the barge. His statement was in reply to one by the Fifth Ward Association claiming that garbage and other refuse was seen floating there.

Congress, McNamara Ties Break

Pay and Merger
Proposals Lose

By HARRY KELLY

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress' long if not ardent honeymoon with Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara appears finally over.

His old mastery was missing as Congress put its foot down twice Wednesday — going its own way on a military pay bill and turning a deaf ear to his strong arguments for a merger of the Army reserves.

The Reserve plan, a particularly pet project, was killed at least for this year by a House Armed Services subcommittee headed by Rep. F. Edward Hebert, D-La.

Despite McNamara's arguments to the contrary, the subcommittee said the proposed merger would result in "an immediate and serious loss in combat readiness" and is "not in our national interest."

On the other side of Capitol Hill, the Senate was giving an 89-0 approval of a $1-billion military pay bill, much the same as already passed by the House, but more than twice as much as McNamara wanted. The House appeared likely to give quick approval to the Senate version.

A Defense Department statement, not quoting McNamara, said Secretary of the Army Stanley R. Resor and Gen. Harold K. Johnson, chief of staff, both believe the subcommittee's rejection of the merger plan "will compel the Army to retain nonessential units" rather than use the manpower to build up more important forces required by war contingency plans.

Moreover, the statement said "failure to go forward with the realignment will necessarily result in more men being taken out of civilian life into the armed forces."

The statement noted the subcommittee's expressed willingness to consider future reorganizations and said the department "is prepared to continue discussions immediately."

McNamara is said still to have hopes of reviving the plan, or one similar to it, next year.

The proposal that was turned down was to streamline the Reserves by cutting out low priority units and consolidating the high priority ones within the National Guard. When McNamara announced the plan Dec. 12 he expressed belief he needed other congressional authority than a simple change in the appropriations bill.

President Johnson Planning Fall Tour Of Nation With Report to the People

By FRANK CORMIER

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson plans no foreign travel this year but hopes to schedule speaking tours to widely separated parts of the nation in the fall as part of a "report to the people" program.

Johnson's travel plans became the subject of renewed interest after the President confided Wednesday to a visiting delegation of travel industry executives that: "I hope before the year is out — when Congress gets out of here — I can do some traveling too."

White House officials, asked to elaborate on Johnson's plans, emphasized first that no trips to foreign countries were contemplated.

Bill D. Moyers, press secretary, was asked about Johnson's off-the-cuff remark about travel hopes. He said the President wanted to "get out and see parts of the country and see people." He said that this hope has not reached the formal planning stage nor have any invitations been accepted.

From other sources, it was learned White House aides are thinking in terms of a series of speaking engagements, geographically scattered, in which Johnson would report to the people following the adjournment of Congress. It was understood there also has been very tentative talk at the White House about possible presidential conferences outside Washington with such groups as farmers, students, businessmen and, perhaps, labor union leaders.

So far as a presidential vacation was concerned, informants said nothing was in prospect for

Drought Study Team Heads to Northeast

WASHINGTON (AP)—A federal water crisis team heads into the drought-stricken Northeast today to begin laying out a systematic program for solving an acute water shortage.

Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall and Lt. Gen. W. F. Cassidy, chief of the Army Engineers, head the team which has meetings scheduled at Philadelphia (1:30 p.m. EDT) and Camden, N.J., (4 p.m.) today and at Newark, N.J., (9 a.m.) and New York City (2 p.m.) Friday.

Follow-up teams of about a half dozen men each will be set up in each city to continue working with state and local officials on drought problems.

This was the machinery ordered Wednesday by President Johnson during a White House conference of governors, mayors, members of Congress and other officials from New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Delaware called to discuss the four years of drought.

Chamber Office Has Instructions On Sales Tax

Albert Kurdt, manager of the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce, today announced that instruction and other circulars pertaining to the state sales tax are now available at the chamber office in the Governor Clinton Hotel.

Kurdt said he made a special trip to the regional sales tax office at Poughkeepsie to pick up the forms. They may be obtained at the office from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. daily. His office, he said, has received many calls asking information on the tax.

Available at the office now are sales and use tax collection charts, certificates noting that the holder is entitled to collect the tax, farmers' exemption certificates, information on record keeping and instructions for sales tax vendors, and a sales tax schedule for motor fuel sold at retail service stations through metered pumps.

1965 apart from visits to the LBJ Ranch near Johnson City, Tex.

Preparations have been made for extended ranch stays, though none has come to pass. A formal presidential office has been established in the federal building at Austin, the Texas capital only 65 miles from the ranch — 25 minutes by helicopter.

Late in 1964, Johnson let it be known he hoped to visit representative farmers at spring planting time this year. This idea was shelved because of foreign and domestic developments.

The President still may see the farmers, though not in the growing season. The idea is being reworked in connection with discussion of possible out-of-town sessions with representatives of various segments of the populace.

"This is a time for action — federal, state and local, public and private," Johnson said.

He announced measures to mobilize federal aid for longer range projects including a $4-million water resources planning survey for the entire Northeast from Maine to Virginia and speedup in reservoir projects in Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

Johnson also signed a bill authorizing a $185-million speedup in the program to convert salt and brackish water to fresh water.

Udall and Cassidy met for more than an hour following the White House meeting with dozens of state and local officials from the drought area to set up the machinery for implementing the President's plan.

"We want to lay out a systematic program," Udall said. "We presumably will come up with some hard decisions." The first step for the task force, Udall said, will be to gather all the information possible on the water shortage, what's being done about it and the supplies which are available through next March 15 when the spring runoff normally begins.

Although more federal money probably will be needed, Udall said the cities and states also will play an expanded role in the solutions to the problem to be recommended to the President.

Johnson asked his Water Resources Council which Udall heads to keep in daily touch with officials of the four states represented at the White House conference. He said he is prepared to take whatever additional steps the council deems necessary.

Resnick Continues Blasts, Jarred Himself by Clausi

Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick was pitching and catching today all over politics.

The Ellenville resident who represents the 28th Congressional District in Washington continued his criticism of Raymond W. Garraghan, Democratic candidate for mayor of Kingston, for accepting endorsement of the Conservative party here.

Meanwhile, he was on the receiving end of things himself as the Democratic committeeman from the Third District, Town of Ulster, accused the congressman of "trying to ruin our party."

Clausi's Complaint
Thomas Clausi scored Resnick for ignoring committeemen before making local appointments. Clausi said he would not support Resnick if he continues the practice.

Concerning the Garraghan endorsement in the Conservatives, Resnick said he was especially irked by its acceptance by the Democratic candidate for mayor. He urged the Democratic State Committee to look into the question. "They know the endorsement is a kiss of death," he said.

Blasts Resnick
Committeeman Clausi made this statement to The Freeman today:

"I have remained silent for many months, hoping that Congressman Resnick would mend his ways and return to the Democratic Party but apparently he is determined to function as the

20 Lights Approved For Circle Hearing Sept. 8th On 'Copter Port

Installation of 20 lights in the area of the Route 28 interchange circle to illuminate the often-referred to Black Hole of Calcutta, has been approved by the State Department of Public Works, it was made known at Wednesday night's meeting of the Town Board of the Town of Ulster.

Hearing on Copters
The board received a request from the International Business Machines Corporation for approval by the town officials to permit a helicopter landing area to be constructed at the plant site for occasional use especially by visitors. A public hearing was scheduled for Sept. 8 at 7 p. m. at Lake Katrine Grange Hall.

Information of the lighting project was received by the Town Board from the office of M. Nicholas Sincori, district engineer. The plans show that the 20 lights will be mounted on aluminum poles similar to those at the arterial entering Albany Avenue.

Robert Strickland, lighting engineer for the Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corp., worked out the cost of the lighting as follows: annual charge for lighting will be $1,524; maintenance annually and replacement of luminaires as they burn out will be $375, a total of $1,899.

The darkened area at the Route 28 interchange circle has been the topic of heated debate by area residents for many months, and radio editorials have repeatedly called upon state officials to approve the lighting project.

Supervisor Alexander J. Banno has worked untiringly for many months, seeking approval by the State Department of Public Works of the lighting plan. A resolution was passed unanimously last night by board members for the Town of Ulster to provide further wiring and maintenance at the lighting project site.

State to Do Work
It was reported that the state will construct the lighting facility on Route 28 from the west boundary of the Thruway to and including the rotary interchange. Under the plans, the State of New York will provide for any underground duct system that may be necessary, to include conduits, pull boxes, hand poles and drainage pockets; foundations for the aluminum poles, aluminum poles and bracket arms and any appurtenances as may be necessary for installation of same, and the luminaires with lamps, built-in ballasts and photo-electric controls.

The Town of Ulster will provide for furnishing the necessary wiring, switches, transformers and all other system components on the lighting system. The

Retired IBM Executive Dies at Dutchess Home

The man who for more than 20 years was most closely identified with International Business Machines Corporation in the Mid-Hudson Valley, William J. Mair died Wednesday night of a heart attack at his home in Poughkeepsie.

An IBMer since 1929, Mr. Mair retired as resident vice president last March, having served the company for more than 35 years.

A native of Aberdeenshire, Scotland, Mr. Mair came to this country in 1921 as a trained tool and model maker. He was hired by IBM at the company's former New York City laboratory at Varick Street on Nov. 7, 1929.

Mr. Mair moved to Endicott with the laboratory in 1933 and was promoted to manager of the model shop there. He advanced rapidly to manager of special production and tool room in 1936 and to supervisor of all tool making at Endicott in 1941.

Shortly after World War II began, he was given a special assignment on munitions production at IBM Endicott. In 1942 Mr. Mair was named superintendent of the new plant at Poughkeepsie, a plant then completely involved in producing war materials. In 1947 he advanced to works manager, to general manager in February, 1952 and to resident vice president in June, 1952.

In 1945 Mr. Mair was awarded certificates of appreciation by the Secretary of War and the Army Ordnance Department for contributions to war production during World War II.

Active in community life, Mr.

WILLIAM J. MAIR

Mair had served as trustee of St. Francis Hospital, director of YMCA, advisory board member of the Salvation Army and a member of the board of counselors of the Children's Home, all in Poughkeepsie.

He also served on the board of directors of Central Hudson Gas and Electric; Associated Industries of New York State Inc. and the First Savings and Loan Association.

In addition to his wife Margaret, Mr. Mair is survived by his mother, three brothers and three sisters.

Funeral services will be held at the First Presbyterian Church, 100 Canon Street, 10:30 a. m. Saturday. Burial will be in the Poughkeepsie Rural Cemetery. Friends may call at the Schoonmaker Chapel, 73 South Hamilton Street, Poughkeepsie 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p. m. Friday.

Draft Boards Take New Look at Campus

NEW YORK (AP) — Some Selective Service boards say they will tighten rules deferring college students from the draft in the Viet Nam crisis.

Draft boards that have been liberal in giving students deferments in the past say they are going to get tough to meet heavy draft calls beginning next month.

13 to Review Status
A sampling by The Associated Press of 20 states showed 13 planning to review the status of deferred students. At least two others in the survey are considering such action.

"If we need men to draft, one place we'll look is the college classroom," said Lt. Col. Wayne Rhodes, deputy state director of the Indiana Selective Service System.

The look to the campus came after President Johnson ordered the monthly draft jumped from 17,000 to 35,000 men by November.

The Pentagon said the September draft will be 27,400 and the October draft call will be 33,600. The Navy will get 4,600 of the October draftees — the first time in nine years enlistments have failed to produce enough new men.

The quotas are the highest since the Korean War, when 80,000 men were called some months.

Lt. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, director of the Selective Service System, said there are between 100,000 and 150,000 college students in the country who are not in the service.

"I have discovered that he has ignored many other committeemen in the county. He has made a complete turn-about since elected and now bites the hand that feeds him. Mr. Resnick will not sit at my political dinner table again."

Calls Him 'Dictator'
"To put it bluntly, Mr. Resnick wants to be 'Dictator' in Ulster County Democratic politics. I will not support this move. Neither his money or his victory can justify my supporting a man who will not support my party. The organization must come first, before any man, even Mr. Resnick. One victory does not win the battle. Mr. Resnick had better grow-up politically soon or he will not be visiting Washington again from this area."

"As a committeeman, I must work every day for my party and its elected officials. I cannot do this when the elected official does not support me. In order for the people in my district to help me I must help them. The only way I can do this is for the Congressman to

Guerrilla Wipe-Out Underway

Fighting Is Heavy
In Mekong Delta

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. and Vietnamese troops lifted the 70-day-old siege of Due Co today.

Powerful units launched operations to wipe Viet Cong from the jungles flanking 40 miles of highway on which that Special Forces camp is situated near the Cambodian frontier.

In the air war, a U.S. Navy A4 Skyhawk was reported shot down by a surface-to-air missile about 50 miles south-southwest of Hanoi. A military spokesman said the downed craft was one in a formation of four of the single-seat lightweight jet bombers. The pilot was presumed killed.

From Mobile Unit

The spokesman said the area was outside the range of known anti-aircraft missile sites in North Viet Nam. He would not elaborate, but it was believed this indicated the missile was fired from a mobile unit.

North Vietnamese barracks at Vinh, Ba Binh and Dien Bien Phu were among targets of U.S. Navy and Air Force pilots. Spokesmen said they destroyed a total of 6 buildings and damaged 14.

Reports from the Mekong delta said heavy fighting was under way between large government and Viet Cong units about 15 miles south of Can Tho, itself 80 miles southwest of Saigon. The Vietnamese troops said they had killed 156 Viet Cong. Government casualties were said to be light.

U.S. troops of the 173rd Airborne Brigade and the 2nd Brigade of the 1st Infantry Division backed up government battalions of a relief column that reached Due Co Wednesday night.

The Americans had flown Tuesday and Wednesday to Pleiku, 2nd Corps area headquarters in the central highlands, as the relief column neared its goal, 30 miles southwest of Pleiku.

Make Brief Contact
A patrol of U.S. paratroopers made a brief contact with guerrillas today at the village of Plei Ya Ho. Shots were exchanged, but when the paratroopers returned to their base they found only frightened villagers. No Americans were hit during the shooting.

Speaking of the downing of the Skyhawk, the spokesman said the three other planes of the flight returned safely and reported it was hit by a missile from the ground.

He added that no enemy aircraft were sighted in the area and no other groundfire was reported except that which hit the plane. The weather was reported clear.

No Parachute Seen
No parachute was seen, the spokesman said, and the missing pilot was presumed killed.

Rosendale Town
Will Streamline
Board Meetings

Action has been taken by the Town Board of Rosendale to expedite business meetings and eliminate unnecessary arguments, debates and discussions which in the past have disrupted and extended town board sessions.

The Town Board headed by Supervisor George Mollenhauer, (D) has unanimously adopted a resolution which will require townspeople and the public, who may want to appear before the board at regular sessions to discuss local matters, to ask for permission in writing.

The written requests to appear before the board must be submitted to Mrs. Catherine O'Leary, town clerk, no later than noon on the Monday preceding the town board meeting. The townspeople seeking that permission must include a resume of the topic to be discussed, and when permission is granted, he must approach the board, state his case, and be seated without argument, debate or further discussion, according to the resolution.

Town officials said the board has found it difficult in the past to transact its usual and necessary business in an efficient and orderly manner, because of un-

Razing Health Building For Parking Is on Agenda

Steps towards demolishing the former county health department building at 15 Main Street, and installing a parking meter area on the site, are expected to be taken tonight at a meeting of the Ulster County Board of Supervisors.

A resolution will be presented by the building committee of the board seeking authorization to prepare specifications and advertise for bids for demolition of the large house and to prepare specifications and obtain bids for surfacing the site for a parking area and installation of parking meters.

The board is expected to set August 27 at 3 p. m. as the date for a public hearing to discuss a tentative budget for the Ulster County Community College.

A resolution will be offered calling for the board to consider the desirability of providing tenure for all county employees after five years of service. The Board is expected to approve a resolution to be offered by the building committee for the purchase from the Syracuse Truck Sales Corp. one all-wheel drive truck for a net amount of $22,600.

A resolution by Supervisor Charles Relyea (R-Hurley) will request the board to authorize the county treasurer to advance from the general fund a sum of $4,500 for financing site development at the County Office Building, Main and Fair Streets.

A request from Dr. Vernon B. Link, county health commissioner, for permission to attend an administrative conference for full-time health officers in Albany August 17-18, will be considered. The board is expected to approve a request from District Attorney Joseph Torraca

Breathing Easier

Punctual with your breathing lately? Getting it done at the right time in the right way? Silly notion! Everybody knows breathing is effortless—it "just happens."

But does it? Not if you ask the 225 people who've attended the "school for breathing" that's been going full blast in Alameda County, Calif., since 1962. These are people suffering from asthma, emphysema, or chronic bronchitis—severe forms of RD (Respiratory Disease). Victims of these ailments—notably emphysema—have to fight hard and painfully for every breath they draw.

Which brings us right back to the "school for breathing," run by the physical therapy department of Merritt Hospital. As Dr. E. Ronald Riggall explains: "People with emphysema cannot get the air out of their lungs and for some reason try to breathe only with the upper part of the chest . . . Purpose of the breathing class is to teach these people to breathe with the large and flexible lower chest and diaphragm."

Patients also learn about posture and rhythm in breathing; posture, and how to relax. They are advised not to smoke, and to engage in moderate exercise. They are given a try at a compressed air breathing machine.

How well does this "curriculum" work? The National Tuberculosis Association, which combats all forms of Respiratory Disease including TB, financed a survey of results in the first class of 78 patients. Fifty of them showed improvement at the end of their two-week course. Six months later, all but ten of the original group were checked again and nearly three out of four continued to feel better. Which indicates that good breathing instruction can do a lot of patients a lot of good.

Chronic cough and shortness of breath are common symptoms of Respiratory Disease. If you have either or both, your Christmas Seal Association advises an immediate medical check.

(This column is sponsored in the interest of better health by the Ulster County TB and Health Association, Inc., 124 Green Street.)

Feminity Is Not All Body, Face, Elke's Viewpoint

Seeks New Subway Cars

NEW YORK (AP) — The Transit Authority says it has asked the federal government for $23.5 million to purchase 200 new streamlined subway cars.

actress, is a rarity: She eats desserts.

Should Be Round

"I think a woman to be feminine should be round," she says. "In Europe men prefer a woman they can put their arms around and feel something besides bones. Even American designers — and the French, too — make clothes for girls who should be sent to camps for undernourished children. I have yet to meet a man who wants a girl friend built like a boy."

Elke believes that feminity is not all body and face.

"You see a beautiful woman enter the room and you don't look. You see a less beautiful woman — and you look."

"And nine times out of ten, that less beautiful woman you see will be well-rounded."

Elke sometimes even has a second helping of dessert.

She is currently in "The Oscar," which she calls the best part she has had so far. She plays a dress designer.

"I have never been dressed so beautifully in a movie," says Elke.

Usually in Scanty Garb

Because of her blonde beauty and knockout figure, she has spent much of her movie career in scanty garb.

When Elke first came to the United States to make "The Prize," and interviewer wrote.

"She sleeps in the nude, her left thumb in her mouth, her right arm cuddling a stuffed lamb. Asleep, she resembles a child. But awake and in fluid motion before the cameras, she makes Bardot look like an awkward schoolgirl. There are critics who deride her talent but her movies have earned her a half-dozen fur coats and three homes. She says she has no time for love but the European press claims that two men have committed suicide over her. On screen she seems kitten soft; off screen she possesses an iron will, a soaring ambition and the mind of an electric computer."

What did she do about the guy who wrote that?

"I married him," says Mrs. Joe Hyams.

Normally, the widow of a worker who was insured under Social Security is entitled to 82½ per cent of her husband's primary benefit — what he would have received if he had lived to retire at age 65.

But she can get that much only if she waits until she is 62 to apply. If she chooses to start collecting at age 61, she gets only 77 per cent; at age 60, only 71½ per cent.

Actually, a widow may draw Social Security benefits even before she is 60 — provided she has an unmarried child under 18 or one that was disabled before age 18.

In such event, the widow gets 75 per cent of her deceased husband's primary benefit. But unless she has a disabled child in her care this payment — which amounts to a mother's rather than a widow's benefit — stops when the youngest child reaches 18. And she then can't resume collecting Social Security checks until she herself becomes 60 (and isn't married at the time).

There's also a difference in the eligibility rules. A widow with a disabled child or one under 18 may collect survivors' benefits if the worker was either "currently" or "fully" insured under Social Security. But if she has no such children she can collect benefits only if he was "fully" insured.

To be fully insured, a person must work under Social Security for periods ranging up to 10 years — depending on his year of birth. To be currently insured, he must work only 1½ of the three years preceding death.

Whether the worker was fully or currently insured, each of his surviving children is entitled to 75 per cent of his primary benefit. This pertains to any child under 18; any child under 22 who is still a full-time student; and any child of any age who is incapable of self-support due to physical or mental disability incurred before age 18.

The "student benefit" is new, and it is retroactive to Jan. 1, 1965. But unless she is at least 60, the widowed mother of such a student cannot collect an extra benefit for herself — as she can if she has a disabled child or a youngster under 18.

In any event, there is a limit on how much one family can draw each month. This now ranges from $66 to $309.20, depending on the deceased workers' average earnings under Social Security. The ceiling will go up to $368 in 1967.

When a worker dies, his parents also may collect survivor's benefits. To qualify, a parent

The Widow's Mite

Congress has now made it possible for widows to draw monthly Social Security benefits as early as age 60.

Effective Sept. 1, 1965 (or Oct. 1 if bill is signed after July 31), a woman no longer need wait until she is 62 to collect such checks. However, the size of the check is reduced if she applies for her widow's benefit before 62.

Normally, the widow of a worker who was insured under Social Security is entitled to 82½ per cent of her husband's primary benefit — what he would have received if he had lived to retire at age 65.

But she can get that much only if she waits until she is 62 to apply. If she chooses to start collecting at age 61, she gets only 77 per cent; at age 60, only 71½ per cent.

Actually, a widow may draw Social Security benefits even before she is 60 — provided she has an unmarried child under 18 or one that was disabled before age 18.

In such event, the widow gets 75 per cent of her deceased husband's primary benefit. But unless she has a disabled child in her care this payment — which amounts to a mother's rather than a widow's benefit — stops when the youngest child reaches 18. And she then can't resume collecting Social Security checks until she herself becomes 60 (and isn't married at the time).

There's also a difference in the eligibility rules. A widow with a disabled child or one under 18 may collect survivors' benefits if the worker was either "currently" or "fully" insured under Social Security. But if she has no such children she can collect benefits only if he was "fully" insured.

To be fully insured, a person must work under Social Security for periods ranging up to 10 years — depending on his year of birth. To be currently insured, he must work only 1½ of the three years preceding death.

Whether the worker was fully or currently insured, each of his surviving children is entitled to 75 per cent of his primary benefit. This pertains to any child under 18; any child under 22 who is still a full-time student; and any child of any age who is incapable of self-support due to physical or mental disability incurred before age 18.

The "student benefit" is new, and it is retroactive to Jan. 1, 1965. But unless she is at least 60, the widowed mother of such a student cannot collect an extra benefit for herself — as she can if she has a disabled child or a youngster under 18.

In any event, there is a limit on how much one family can draw each month. This now ranges from $66 to $309.20, depending on the deceased workers' average earnings under Social Security. The ceiling will go up to $368 in 1967.

When a worker dies, his parents also may collect survivor's benefits. To qualify, a parent must be at least 62 and must have received at least half of his financial support from the worker. Also, the worker must have been fully insured at time of death.

The monthly payment to one dependent parent equals 82½ per cent of the worker's primary benefit. If there are two dependent parents, each gets 75 per cent.

Sometimes a widower qualifies. To do so, he must be at least 62 and must have depended on his wife for at least half of his financial support. Also, she must have been both fully and currently insured under Social Security. The payment to a dependent widower is 82½ per cent of the wife's primary benefit.

Also available when a worker dies is a lump-sum death benefit. It is equal to three times the worker's primary monthly benefit, up to a maximum of $255.

This is paid to the widow or widower, provided the spouse was living with the worker at time of death or paid the burial expenses. Otherwise, the lump-sum benefit goes to the person who paid for the funeral.

Disaster Committee Would Help Farmers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U. S. Agriculture Department's Disaster Committee has recommended that surplus feed grains be made available to farmers in 15 drought-stricken counties.

The committee's action was announced Wednesday by Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., who urged Gov. Rockefeller to request the assistance. A request by the governor is necessary before the Agriculture Department can act.

The 15 counties are St. Lawrence, Franklin, Clinton, Essex, Washington, Columbia, Greene, Ulster, Orange, Sullivan, Warren, Saratoga, Schenectady, Albany and Rensselaer.

Esopus Legion Hears Report On Boys State

George Tsitsera, delegate from the Town of Esopus Post 1298 American Legion to Empire Boys State, gave a detailed report to assembled Legionnaires at Tuesday's meeting.

He outlined the citizenship training sessions recently held at Colgate for over 1,000 selected boys and answered questions from members.

Commander Vincent Burns announced the appointment of Frank Lutz as Mountain Camp chairman.

Co-chairman Milton Tsitsera thanked members for their cooperation in staffing the bar during the month of July. He also asked for continued cooperation Saturday evening when the post will host the Kingston Patrolmen's Association annual ball.

Chester W. Barth, speaking for the re-dedication and 20th anniversary committee, scheduled another general committee meeting for Tuesday 8 p. m. All assigned committee members along with all other Legionnaires were urged to attend this important planning session.

A tentative date of Saturday, Oct. 23 has been set to fete all Little League players who participated in this year's Esopus Legion League. Charles Webster will announce details on the dinner in the near future.

Plans for reactivation of the post newspaper are continuing and members can expect detailed reports on all activities through this medium later in the month.

PROTECTING THE ELDERLY

The National Better Business Bureau points out that among the serious problems facing the elderly is their financial security. When this is shattered, tragedy strikes.

At best, the resources of the elderly for the most part are pitifully small and that is why it is important not only to them but to the community and the nation that their savings be safeguarded for their own welfare.

Crooks and swindlers have other ideas. They have devised many ways to fleece the aged for their own enrichment while posing as business men.

The nation's 18 million elderly citizens are bilked of hundreds of millions of dollars each year by quacks and swindlers who prey on their loneliness, fears, infirmities and financial desperation.

The number of Americans living through the "sunset years" after 65 is increasing steadily and now represents about 10 per cent of the total population.

Although most of the nation's elderly citizens have meagre incomes, many have nest eggs of a few thousand dollars which the con men consider easy pickings. Collectively, these life savings represent a rich haul.

Wistful older people are a natural and willing target for an ingenious array of frauds and swindles—from quack medicines to uninhabitable homesites, from shady matrimonial agencies to funeral and cemetery schemes.

The elderly are taken by glib sales pitches for sub-marginal land for retirement homes, risky investment situations, home improvement gyps, business opportunity rackets, misleading medical and hospital insurance plans and work-at-home schemes.

A small band of itinerant con men constantly prey upon the gullibility of older people. There is the gutter repairman, the chimney repairman, the roofing expert, the siding expert and the promoter of lightning protection devices that are not only worthless but may be harmful.

What can be done to thwart the con men and quacks?

The best advice is common sense rules: Beware of "miracle" cures. Take medical problems to your physician.

Beware of the man who rings the doorbell and says he just happens to be in the neighborhood with his home repair equipment. Secure price quotations from local firms on all home repairs.

Check "amazing" bargain offers before any money is spent or any investment is made.

Read and understand all written agreements and contracts. Better still take them to your lawyer.

The Freeman from time to time has warned its readers to beware of the transient merchants. These people are here today and away tomorrow. Your local merchants and tradesmen are in back of everything they do or sell. Local businesses offer better quality work and merchandise and at as reasonable prices as those of other agencies. And the beneficial effect of doing business with local people, who stand in back of their products or their contract, should be plain to everyone.

SERVICEMEN, BEWARE

Things never get so bad that somebody doesn't spot a way to make a profit out of it.

A handful of mail-order insurance companies are flooding recently inducted servicemen with applications of policies, reports William R. Morris, superintendent of insurance for the state of Ohio.

Their premiums are high and there is great doubt that these companies have sufficient reserves to cover a rash of claims.

The business has increased in pace with the growing war in Viet Nam, and has been spurred by the announcement by some life insurance firms that they are writing "war clauses" into servicemen's policies, exempting them from paying a claim if the policy holder is killed in military action.

One Navy recruit says he received 10 application forms in three weeks from the same company. Another company even

WHERE THE BEATNIKS
ARE THE "SQUARES"

Milwaukee, Wis.: Sargent Shriver and his government-financed anti-poverty crusade get all the headlines. But not all the wealth of the Indies — or of America — can solve our problems unless individuals, without waiting upon Washington, get out and do something for themselves.

Before coming to Milwaukee, to look into its voluntary methods of ending racial discrimination in employment practices, I had watched my son Chris, a junior in college this coming autumn, carry through what I thought a unique summer job placement idea for the teenagers of his home town of Cheshire in Connecticut. Chris had published a directory, financed by advertisements from the town merchants, of some fifty or sixty young people and the various job classifications that interested them. The directory had been distributed, but as I took off for the Middle West it was too soon to know what effect it might be having on the teen-age unemployment situation in a small community.

Talking with Elmer Winter of the famous Milwaukee (and world-wide) firm of Manpower, Inc., who is the sparkplug of the Milwaukee Voluntary Equal Employment Opportunity Council, I mentioned my son's idea for matching teenagers with jobs, adding that I thought it was rather original. An amused glint came into Mr. Winter's eye. The notion of a directory financed by the merchants could be, he said, a new gimmick. But the kids of Milwaukee, so he informed me, had anticipated Chris by a full year in taking it upon themselves to solve the problem of teenage unemployment. Mr. Winter had a hand in getting things started, but he had quickly bowed out.

Taking me down the street to some store space occupied by the kids' organization that is called Youthpower, Inc., Mr. Winter introduced me to Ron Franzmeier, a university of Wisconsin undergraduate who is specializing in speech and journalism. Ron, who spends all his waking summer hours running Youthpower, told me that he and his helpers had placed 1,183 Milwaukee kids in jobs this summer up to August 1. Their total of placements for last year, the first of their operation, was 1,300, a figure which should be equalled and passed by mid-August. But even this doesn't tell the full story, so Ron Franzmeier says. The fact is that a good percentage of the 1964 summer placements went back to their same jobs this year without bothering to tell Youthpower, Inc., about it.

The Youthpower staff works purely for the love of it. Some drop in for a few hours a week; others put in upwards of forty hours and more. There is a jangle of phones as they list applicants, keep the indexes up to snuff, and answer requests for a boy to mow grass, or a girl to wait on table at a motel restaurant. Tom Biracree, 18-years-old, Michele Fink, 16, and Marga Niemeyer, 17, all of them full-time staffers, crowded around me to tell what a great thing for Milwaukee this Youthpower idea has proved to be. I couldn't help contrasting their appearance and attitudes with the sight of the non-studying "students" I had seen slouching about the university gates at Berkeley, California, in bare feet and professional slob dress.

The Milwaukee Youthpower, Inc., has been imitated this summer in Chicago and in Green Bay, Wisconsin. In Milwaukee the kids, not satisfied with merely placing teen-agers in the standard sort of summer employment, have become really creative about it. They are offering tours of Milwaukee, with itineraries set up by the county's historical society. They are offering babysitters who are willing to take children to museums and parks for education. They are running courses to train girls as party hostesses, and they have persuaded the Milwaukee park authorities to hold clinics in which young people can learn all about garden care and the use of power equipment. They even turned out ten kids who were willing to wash the elephants for a circus museum in Baraboo, Wisconsin.

And they aren't asking Sargent Shriver for a placed nickel, or a new "sandwich" fifty cent piece. (Copyright, 1965, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

Don't Delay Treatment
When Thyroid Acts Up

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q—I have a greatly enlarged thyroid. Is there any way of reducing its size without surgery? If not, what would be the effect of just letting it go?

A—There are different types of goiter. If you have a toxic or exophthalmic goiter your thyroid is overactive. Antithyroid drugs such as propylthiouracil are effective in persons who are under 25 and in controlling hyperthyroidism during pregnancy. If you are over 25 surgical removal of the goiter is the treatment of choice. Radioactive iodine has been used but is losing favor as undesirable long term results are being observed. This is a serious disease and if untreated leads to nervous exhaustion and heart failure.

Simple or colloid goiter is caused by an inadequate intake of iodine. Early in the course of the disease iodine will check the growth of the goiter but, when it has become well established, this treatment is not effective. The victim may, however, respond to thyroid extract. If untreated this type of goiter continues to grow and surgical removal becomes necessary because of its size.

Nodular goiter may be benign or malignant. Here it is important to determine which type you have. Immediate and complete removal of the malignant type is a must.

Q—What kind of resection would a person get from taking too much thyroid? Could it do any serious damage if taken over a period of years? How accurate are the PBI and BMR tests?

A—Prolonged overdosage of thyroid extract and related drugs such as thyroxine may produce all the symptoms of a toxic goiter—tremor, nervous irritability, sweating, emotional instability, protruding eyeballs, palpitation of the heart and loss of weight. This could wear out the victim's endurance and his heart.

Any laboratory procedure is only as accurate as the technician who performs the test. The protein-bound iodine (PBI) test and radioactive iodine uptake have largely replaced the basal metabolic rate (BMR) as tests of thyroid function.

Q—I have been taking theobromine with phenobarbital daily for 3 years because of high blood pressure. In the last 2 years I have had a red nose and recurrent pimples on my nose. Also the skin of my palms gets dry and cracks. My doctor says that when this occurs I should cut down on the pills. Are these symptoms caused by the pills? Would some other medicine be better for me?

A—Prolonged use of phenobarbital often causes skin disorders. A wide variety of drugs is now available to control high blood pressure. I would advise a trial of some of the others.

Please send your questions and comments to Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D., in care of The Kingston Daily Freeman. While Dr. Brandstadt cannot answer individual letters he will answer letters of general interest in future columns.

Before the Paint's Even Dry

Washington News

By BRUCE BLOSSAT
Washington Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — The 50 states are at a critical point. Their already shrunken power may slip entirely from their grasp if they go on trying to run their affairs on a kind of bargain-basement part-time footing.

For 30 years, defenders of state legislatures have been moaning about usurpations of power by Congress and the federal executive branch. But the defenders have not had the courage of their convictions. They have done little to fit the states to the changing times.

Today the combined 50-state outlay for legislative administration, including the important item of legislators' salaries, comes to $70,557,000 a year — an average of just $1,411,400 per state.

In contrast, expenditures for operations in Congress come to $166,000,000, or more than double the annual state figure.

To maintain the nearly 7,800 state legislators from Maine to Hawaii costs an average of $9,066 for each legislative seat. The nation lays out $382,000 to keep each congressman in business.

California, New York and a handful of other states provide significant exceptions to this general portrait, but the rule governs most of the 50.

UNTIL THIS SITUATION is sharply altered, along with other now depressing conditions in the state legislatures, it sounds terribly hollow and even hypocritical to talk of "turning power back to the states."

Mrs. Walter Williamson, wife of the pastor of Alliance Gospel Church, Franklin Street, died.

Former Coroner Frank J. McCordie, of Rosendale, became the county's first commissioner of jurors.

The Kingston Recreation dropped an 11-3 game to Poughkeepsie at the Municipal Stadium.

Aug. 12, 1955—Steel arrived here for the Kingston-Rhine-Cliff Bridge.

Additional central office equipment was being installed here by the New York Telephone Company.

Gales from hurricane Connie were expected in the area. Some 50 city public works employees not covered by retirement plan were due to gain social security coverage.

Legislators thus limited may be equipped to license barbers and beauty parlors, but they are hardly qualified to cope with the engulfing problems of the population explosion as it affects schools, employment, welfare, health, highways and a variety of scientific endeavors.

As one shrewd aide to a governor has pointed out, the country's growth compels that these matters be dealt with more than ever in the field rather than in Washington. The mounting danger is that those states which persist in either ineffectuality or obstinate resistance to a changing order will be bypassed. Action will flow increasingly through direct federal-urban channels.

ALREADY WELL PUBLICIZED is the fact that several lavishly sponsored nonpartisan groups are undertaking studies aimed at modernizing state government in all its aspects. Admirably, the big foundations are chipping in heavily.

None of these studies is potentially more useful than that of the Citizens Conference on State Legislatures, whose formation was formally announced in Detroit in mid-July.

The whole bent of this group is toward laying groundwork for upgrading the legislatures, on the theory that they are the real key to overall improvement in state government. Implied is the notion that even a greatly modernized governor's office cannot function well if hamstrung by a rickety legislature.

The Citizens Conference, which is setting up national offices in Kansas City, Mo., under former Gov. John Anderson of Kansas, wants to see legislators gain better pay, more professional staffing, fuller research opportunities, adequate office and other physical facilities, sounder organization and procedure.

If and when these improvements can be managed the states may become fit to handle more of the major matters which they keep insisting are theirs by right. And state legislators may become men of stature whose names on the ballot will be recognized by persons other than their party sponsors.

But if the modernizing drive fails, then to talk of restoring power to the states will mean to suggest giving them power to do nothing or very little — and much of that poorly.

A Spirit of Discontent Exists Over Viet Nam War

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — The war in Viet Nam is getting more and more unpopular with the American people — and peace seems to be farther and farther away.

The enemy — namely, the Communist bloc in Asia — expects a long war, but is confident the United States will grow tired and find a way to wiggle out.

The real crisis at the moment is not on the battlefield at all, but in the realm of psychological warfare — what is being said by officials of the United States government. The impression being given by American spokesmen is that the government is impatient to end the war and that, while expressing repeatedly a determination to continue fighting indefinitely, it is nevertheless pleading in desperation for some kind of peace conference to negotiate a settlement.

Thus far the United Nations has done nothing to advance the cause of peace — nor have the Peking or Moscow governments or the Hanoi regime in North Viet Nam. Doubtless they assume that, as the war grows more and more unpopular in the United States, the Washington government will find that for political reasons it will have to develop a graceful method of withdrawing from the combat.

President Johnson has tried hard to convince members of Congress that such dissenting views as have been expressed in this country give an impression of disunity and should be so pedaled. But members of Congress are reflecting what they feel is the sentiment back home. Politicians know that again and again in American history the people have voted against the party that was in power when wars were fought. Even in the November election of 1918 — just a few days before the Armistice and while the war was going on intensively — President Wilson's appeal for a Democratic Congress was rejected. The country voted overwhelmingly for the Republican party in both houses.

Again, in 1946, just after the close of World War II, President Truman lost both houses of Congress to the Republicans. In November, 1952, although the armistice in Korea was being negotiated, resentment over the fact that American troops had gone to Korea was widespread, and Dwight Eisenhower was elected by a substantial majority of electoral votes.

Theoretically, of course, during a war the country is unified. But this does not mean that a spirit of discontent is not present.

ent. It's later on that the resentment is fully expressed. The current change in American public opinion started two weeks ago when President Johnson announced that he would not call up the Reserves right away but would increase the draft. There are millions of young men of draft age. The draft call might be small at the present time, but in every home where there is a son aged 18 or older, there begins to be a feeling of apprehension as to whether he will be called.

On Wednesday, the Chicago Tribune published across its front page a banner headline which said: "Married Men Draft Seen." The news story reported that John H. Hammack, Selective Service director of Illinois had said that, while he had not received any such word yet from Washington, he believed that if heavy draft calls continued, married men without children would face being drafted late this year or early next year.

Just to mention in public statements that increases in the draft calls are to be made is to cause in millions of homes a feeling of uncertainty and uneasiness, and this is what is happening throughout the country today. In previous crises, the issues have been clear cut. The people have been able to see exactly what was at stake, and they have recognized — as, for instance, when the attack came on Pearl Harbor — that the United States had no choice. Also, before World War I, American passenger ships on the high seas were being sunk with the loss of American lives. People somehow felt that the war had touched in a vital spot and that they had to respond. The war in Korea, on the other hand, was farther away, just as is the war in Viet Nam, and it is much harder to get across to the people that the issues are related directly to the future safety of this country.

If the Viet Nam war continues without any substantial changes and drags out through the Congressional campaign and the elections of November, 1966, it would not be at all surprising to find the party in power decisively defeated, and a Republican majority elected in both houses. Such landslides have occurred before, as the American people — when they don't understand clearly the issues in a war or when they think it is not being effectively fought — are likely to express: at the polls their resentment against the party in power.

Do You Remember by Sophie Miller

From time to time I have been asked about the D and H Canal, and now that Mrs. Dorothy Hurlbut Sanderson's book, The Delaware and Hudson Canalway is out, I am glad to refer everyone to read this book full of pictures and information.

She sent me number 152 of the limited first printing of 1,000. Recently Mrs. Sanderson came down to buy some of my Fulton cachet covers, envelopes for the Aug. 19, 1965 First Day Issue Fulton cancellation and stamp service at our Central Post Office in Kingston.

She told me at that time, her entire first printing is sold, and she has ordered a second printing. Right after that two of my readers asked where it can be had. I am sure one can write directly to Mrs. Dorothy H. Sanderson, 15 Maple Avenue, Ellenville, and ask for an autographed copy, or the Canal Society of New York State, 311 Montgomery Street, Syracuse. It has some 80 pages, and many pictures.

Mrs. Sanderson quoted from such authors as Washington Irving when he visited Honesdale in 1841 after the canal had become a "flowing reality" and this is what he wrote in part as taken from her book: "I came here along the Delaware and Hudson Canal, which extends from the Hudson River, near the Catskill Mountains up-wards of a hundred miles into the interior. . . I do not know when I have made a more gratifying excursion with respect to natural scenery or more interesting from the stupendous works of art. The canal is laid a great part of the way along romantic valleys watered by the Rondout, the Lackawaxen . . ."

Washington Irving wrote further in 1841 on the D and H Canal trip. "For many miles it is built up along the face of perpendicular precipices, rising into stupendous cliffs with promontories, while, on the other side you look down upon the Delaware, foaming and roaring below you at the foot of an immense wall or embankment which supports the canal. Altogether it is one of the most daring undertakings I have ever witnessed to carry an artificial river over rocky mountains and up the most savage and almost impractical defiles. For upwards of ninety miles I went through a constant succession of scenery that would have been famous had it existed in any part of Europe; the Catskill Mountains to the north, the Shawangunk Mountains to the south, and between them lovely valleys, with the most luxuriant woodlands and picturesque streams. All this is a region entirely unknown to fame." He wrote in 1841, in a letter to his sister in Paris quoted in "Side Path Notes," and the Ellenville (N.Y.) Journal of Aug. 11, 1899.

I just received a magazine called "First Days" a publication of the American First Day Cover Society, a May-June 1965 issue. A cover is an envelope, and I take it, cachet cover, is an illustrated envelope, like the some 15 different Fulton designs I am working on now. I see in this magazine they mention the Scott No. 372, 373 Hudson-Fulton stamp which was issued Sept. 25, 1909 on the opening day of the celebrations in New York City and Albany, N. Y. Aug. 17, 1807 Robert Fulton's steamboat, the Clermont, made its famous trip. Fulton took his first patent on the steamship on Feb. 11, 1809. Henry Hudson discovered the Hudson river sometime in late July or early August of 1609. This is from column "The Historical Significance of First Day Dates," by D. Bubalsky in First Days magazine page 17. A mint Hudson-Fulton stamp is an expensive item to get today. Perhaps they were used on the some 70 H-F postal cards.

Q—Which muscles of birds show the greatest development? A—The breast muscles. In birds they are known as flight muscles and usually are very large and well developed.

Q—How much is left today of the original forest that was here when the first settlers came? A—About 5.4 per cent. Most of that is in the National Park System.

Q—What is the law regarding colored reproductions of United States postage stamps? Colored illustration of postage stamps, whether or not cancelled, are prohibited. The federal law prohibiting such color reproductions carries a possible criminal penalty of 15 years in prison, a $5,000 fine, or both.

Q—What are the secondary feathers of a bird? A—The secondary flight feathers grow from the forearm of the bird.

TV Reviews,

Best Bets

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
 AP TV-Radio Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "We like to think of Honey West as just a normal, average American girl who is a karate expert, drives a custom-built sports car, has an ocelot for a pet and loves gadgets, like earrings that are really little gas bombs," said producer Aaron Spelling, his tongue bracing his cheek so strongly he looked like a man with the mumps.

"Honey West," of course, is one of next season's 20 or so new television comedy series. It is an oblique commentary on the current bogged-down state of network entertainment when Spelling insists that the ABC spoof is one of next season's more daring experiments.

"No one has ever attempted it," he continued. "The odds are really against the show. The question is whether the public will accept a girl lead in a half-hour adventure show."

The mood, Spelling hopes, will be pure "Peter Gunn," the private eye series of several seasons back that combined urbanity and sophisticated, brittle dialogue with roundhouse slugging fests.

Its immediate parent, however, was "Burke's Law," which blazed a TV trail because it "kidded murder, and we've never gotten credit for it," asserted Spelling, who also produced that series.

Honey first appeared as a character in the Gene Barry series on ABC last season. As originally observed, Honey — actress Ann Francis — was a cute private eye who protected herself against assorted evildoers with a quick flip of the wrist that sprawled them on the sidewalk or with a hand-chop that knocked them cold.

George Maharis, who rode off the television range in a cloud of fury after several seasons of "Route 66," returns for the first time as an actor in one of the Bob Hope Theater shows — sharing billing with Simone Signoret. Meanwhile, he has been busy with motion picture roles and has a profitable singing career going for him.

The supply of old movies which have not been released to television is low. NBC, worried about the shortage two years ago, experimented briefly with making full-length films then dropped the expensive project. Now CBS is considering a partnership with a studio in such productions which would also be released to theaters.

Meanwhile, NBC has picked up a package of foreign films for broadcast in 1966. It includes "Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow" and "8½."

Weekly Food Review

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Poultry continues to dominate the picture as the best food buy for the coming weekend.

The U.S. Agriculture Department also said weekend shoppers will find good supplies of seasonal fruits and vegetables.

The USA listed good meat buys as ham, beef roasts, steaks, chops and rib roast.

Seasonal vegetables in good quantity at the market place will be green beans, cabbage, carrots, cauliflower, celery and cucumbers.

Best buys in fruits will be apples, bananas, cantaloupe, grapes, honeydews, limes, orange, peaches, plums and watermelons.

Looking ahead, the Agriculture Department said food prices, which have risen more than 10 per cent over year-ago levels, should reach their peak this month or next then ease — but not down to last year's level.

Chile Concerned About Drinking Habit in Nation

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — Chile is officially concerned about the number of citizens whose fondness for the grape has them in trouble.

The government paper La Nacion says every other adult male is an alcoholic or is on the way to becoming one.

The National Health Service is more conservative, but even so it says 250,000 people in this nation of eight million have serious drinking problems and that 750,000 others drink excessively.

"Excessively" is defined as getting drunk more than once a month. The service says 45 per cent of its hospital beds are occupied by persons suffering the effects of alcohol.

In the Santiago area, the service estimates, one death in 10 is caused by cirrhosis of the liver. The government is committed to helping increase wine produc-

Pleads to Reduced Charge

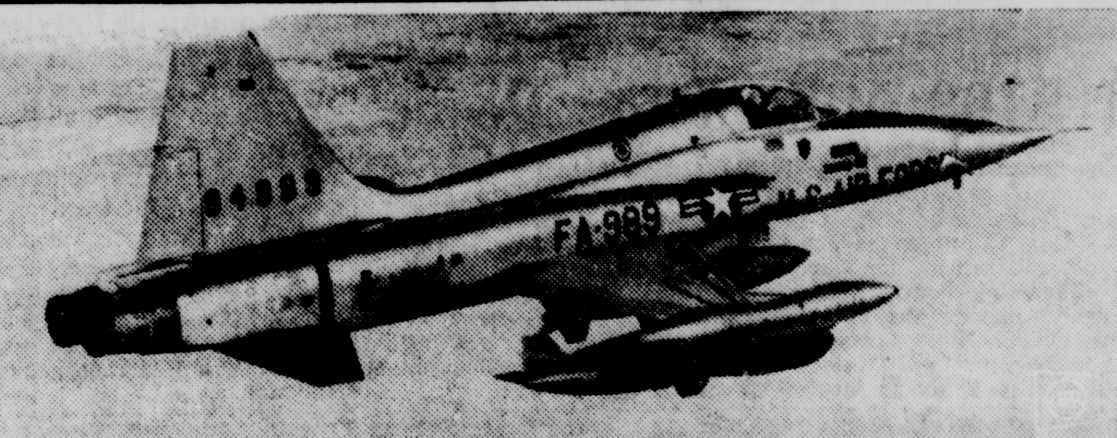

Arrested by Highland state police early today on a charge of second degree assault, James Oscar Herring, 27, of Route 9W, Highland, was permitted to plead guilty to a reduced charge of assault, third degree. Justice of the Peace Linn Baker, Town of Lloyd suspended a 90-day jail sentence. Herring, who was taken into custody by BCI Investigator L. M. Luongo, was accused of knifing Jesse Greenfield, 19, of 8 North Perry Street, Poughkeepsie, cutting his face and back. Trooper Stanley T. Roberts said the incident took place at the home of Oscar Herring, Lattintown Road, Marlboro, July 31.

tion particularly with an eye toward boosting exports.

The government also has promised a massive social improvement program aimed at bringing the Chilean peasants up to somewhere near the educational, economic and social levels of middle-class urban dwellers. Controlling alcoholism among the laboring class is regarded as an important step.

Neither the government nor the private groups interested in the problem believe that the situation will change rapidly. Red and white wines are served with both lunch and dinner in every class of restaurant. The national drink is a clear grape brandy called pisco.

Advertisements often show teen-agers drinking beer or wine. A common sight in a Chilean restaurant is a parent pouring wine for his children. For the younger children, wine usually is mixed with mineral water or occasionally with a soft drink.

MORE AIR MUSCLE—Meet the F-5A, Northrop's answer to an apparent gap in our air punch in Viet Nam. The supersonic jet fighter is small in size and features high maneuverability. Especially built for the type of combat situations we face in Viet Nam, the new plane is slower, easier to handle and needs less landing and take-off space than the big jets. At the same time, it is more deadly than the propeller-driven Skyraider, which has proved to be our most useful plane in guerrilla warfare.

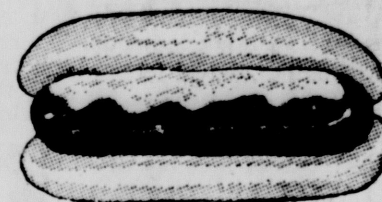

World Bank Reports

WASHINGTON (AP) — The World Bank has reported net income of $136.9 million for the 12-month period ended June 30.

This is $39.4 million higher than the previous year, primarily because the bank discontinued the practice of assigning one per cent of loan repayments to its special reserve.

Do you worry about skids?

The new Royal Master[®] tread has hundreds of little squiggles that get their edges up and out and rub the wet skiddy road dry under you. Nice to know when you're negotiating a curve or want to stop short. The squiggles are designed so deep that skid resistance lasts longer than any other tire.

Do you worry about flats?

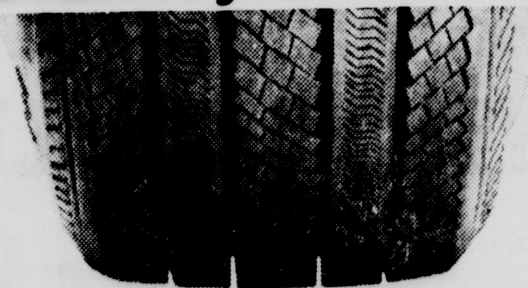

There's a new inner liner that'll protect you from sudden flats, such as you'd get from picking up a nail. It wraps itself around that nail for dear life. You get a chance to spot the slow leak and time to get it fixed.

Do you worry about blowouts?

The new Royal Master's more than a match for 2-by-4s in the road, rocks, or potholes. Your chances of a blowout are practically nil. This brute of a tire has a 4-ply carcass, 60% stronger than first line, new car tires. Its tread is so thick that in our street-turnpike-and-country road tests it lasted 42,000 miles. (You might do more or less, depending on how you drive.)

U.S. Royal Master

Do you worry about guarantees?

If the Royal Master fails for any reason (except abuse or repairable puncture) we'll give you a new one, free, up to the point where you've worn away half the tread.

Beyond that point, our guarantee is the most liberal of any leading make. Based on wear and suggested exchange price.

Do you worry about contests?

This is a drawing. Either your name will be picked or it won't, that's all.

The least that'll happen is that you'll see the tire and our shop, and get the feeling we're a tire dealer you won't have to worry about.

That's worth money, too.

Must Find Answer by MondayLBJ Facing U.N. Problem Of $108 Million for PeaceBy JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson is on the spot.

By Monday he must find a solution that will keep Republican critics quiet, save face for the United States, and get the United States, Russia and the United Nations off the hook.

This is the hook: The Soviet Union, France, Belgium, South Africa, Yemen and eight Communist countries owe $108 million to the United Nations as their share of the cost of keeping the peace in the Middle East and the Congo.

Russia's share is $62.2 million. Russia refuses to pay, arguing that the way the U.N. decision to send peacekeeping forces into the Middle East and the Congo was made was illegal. France takes a similar position.

But the United States has been making Russia its main target and insisted the Soviets must pay up or lose their vote in the U.N. General Assembly.

If that happened, and Russia and her satellites quit the world organization, only a shell would be left. This argument for months has made a mess of the United Nations. The United States has been softening its stand.

An American backdown, particularly at this time when the United States doesn't want Russia to get involved in the Vietnamese war, seems certain. Johnson's problem is how to do it gracefully. This is the background.

Originally the U.N. Security Council — where the United States, Russia, Britain, France and Nationalist China all have a veto that can kill any action — had the right to use U.N. forces to stop aggression.

But at the time of the Korean War the United Nations was able to intervene only because, when the Security Council made the decision, Russia was absent. The United States didn't want to get caught in a narrow squeak like that again.

So it proposed that the General Assembly, where all 114 member nations can vote but none has a veto, should be able to take action against a future aggressor. There were five dissenters on this: Russia and the Soviet Bloc.

In due time the assembly in 1956 voted to send a peacekeeping force into the Middle East and another into the Congo in 1960. Russia opposed both actions. France opposed the mission to the Congo.

But the cost of keeping the peace runs into millions. France, Russia and the other 11 objecting nations didn't pay their assessments for this cost.

France took the position the assembly didn't have the power to do what it did. Russia argued both actions were illegal and that only the Security Council, where it can use a veto, has the right to vote funds for peacekeeping.

But — Article 19 of the U.N. Charter says if a member fails behind for two years in what it owes toward U.N. expenses, it shall have no vote in the assembly. The United States demanded Russia pay up or lose its vote.

That was the American position under Johnson last year. Nevertheless, the United States didn't force an all-or-nothing showdown and this year its position seemed to soften.

Some Republicans in Congress began to attack the Johnson administration for what they called backdown. Yet, in this case someone has to yield or the United Nations may go up in smoke.

This is why it seems inevitable Johnson by Monday will have to work out some formula with which Russia can agree but still do it adroitly enough to keep critics off his neck and save some face for the United States.

The 33-nation U.N. committee considering the dues problem meets Monday.

Two Fire Victims Are New Yorkers

LIBERTY, N.Y. (AP) — Two of four persons killed in a fire that destroyed a Catskill Mountain resort hotel near here were tentatively identified today as New York City residents.

Two male bodies found in the ruins remain unidentified. They are believed to have been employees of the hotel. A fifth person is missing. Fourteen persons, including 11 guests, were injured in the fire that broke out in the four-story, frame hotel Wednesday as about 30 guests and the employees were sleeping. Cause of the blaze has not been determined.

112-118 NORTH FRONT ST.
FE 1-8080*Appointments Made
By Gov. Rockefeller

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller today appointed former state Senator Albert Berkowitz of Granville, Washington County, to the State Athletic Commission.

In other appointments, Rockefeller:

— Continued Wilmet R. Craig of Rochester and Willard A. Genrich on the board of directors of the New York Higher Education Assistance Corp.

— Reappointed Dr. Walter S. Atkinson of Watertown for a five-year term on the State Commission for the Blind.

Members of the Athletic Commission are paid $79.55 a day while on official business. Appointees to the other two agencies serve without pay.

Berkowitz, a lawyer, served in the Senate from February 1957 through 1964, when he was defeated for re-election.

His appointment is subject to confirmation by the Senate, which, by tradition, approves appointments of its former members automatically.

Craig was reappointed for a six-year term as a director of the higher education agency, which helps college students obtain loans to finance their education.

Genrich had been appointed originally by the temporary president of the Senate, and his term had run out.

Why We Say--TRAIN SIGNAL: This name is commonly used for an alcoholic drink today. It started with railroad where a ball signal was raised high to show that the track was clear. Gradually a similar handraising salute was used as a greeting by railroad men and later the salute spread to taverns where a drink was raised instead of the original railroad high ball.

Indonesia Expected to Step Up Campaign Against Malaysia

By JOHN CANTWELL
SINGAPORE (AP) — Indonesia is expected to step up its campaign to crush Malaysia now that Singapore has left the young federation.

President Sukarno is likely to view Singapore's separation Monday as a green light to step up military operations and an indication that Malaysia is on the rocks.

DIAL 331-5656
9 P.M. to 10 A.M.

The "other war" in South-east Asia probably will increase in gravity, with consequent increased demands on the British and Commonwealth forces who are Malaysia's chief protection. "Malaysia can expect an onslaught from Indonesia in the coming week," a military source said after the split in the federation was announced.

The source said Indonesia now is likely to shift its sights away from this big Southeast Asian city.

Might Call Halt

"The Indonesians might be tempted to have a go at British bases here," the source said. "But if they think they can get Singapore on their side — and Singapore Prime Minister Lee Kuan Yew has said he wants to cooperate with Indonesia — they might call a temporary halt to their attacks on Singapore."

Other military sources consider Singapore's separation from Malaysia a psychological victory for Indonesia.

"Sukarno must be having a great laugh," one source said. "But we can expect him to take the utmost advantage of the separation militarily."

Most military authorities in Singapore — Britain's biggest base east of Suez — were pessimistic about the effect Singapore's separation from Malaysia will have on the morale of those resisting Indonesian aggression. "If they can't stick together internally, how are they going to fight an external enemy?" one source said.

Sniff of Victory

"We can expect the Indonesians to take the utmost advantage of the split. They will now give confrontation everything they have got, because they believe they have smelt the first sniff of victory."

"They have seen the first crack in Malaysia."

Military authorities believe Aug. 17, Indonesia's independence day, probably will spark the biggest, most determined attack yet on Malaysia. Aug. 31, Malaysia's independence day, is another likely date for attack.

On the two independence days last year Sukarno sent paratroopers and other forces into the Malaysian mainland. Both these incursions were crushed by security forces — Malaysians, British, Australians and New Zealanders.

Since then, Sukarno has sent numerous guerrilla teams into mainland Malaysia. In recent months he has been concentrating on this island state of 1.8 million people.

Bombings became commonplace. Two weeks ago an attempt was made to blow up the entrance to the U.S. consulate. Sukarno threatened to turn Singapore into a "sea of flames" if Britain stepped up aggression against Indonesia, as he put it.

Indonesian Defense Minister Abdul Haris Nasution said Singapore must be destroyed before Malaysia could be crushed.

Sukarno will probably now shift his sights from Singapore to the Malayan mainland and Malaysia's Borneo states of Sarawak and Sabah.

May Use Missiles

The Indonesians are expected to land regular troops and infiltrators in southern Malaya by boat. They may try to drop paratroopers into certain areas on the peninsula.

Some military observers believe they might use guided missiles against strategic military bases. A recent report said the Soviet Union has supplied Indonesia 12 gunboats armed with surface-to-surface missiles capable of carrying atomic warheads.

In Borneo, the Indonesians are expected to send more troops across the jungle border and to speed up their attempts to stir up internal trouble.

They have allies in Sarawak, where some 25,000 Chinese are believed to be pro-Peking, anti-Malaysia and prepared for armed revolt.

Indonesia recently stepped up its training of Chinese from Sarawak on its side of the border in guerrilla warfare. Recently Indonesian regulars led a group of Chinese Communists in an attack on a police post. Nine people were killed, including the brother of Sarawak's chief minister.

General Motors Is Cleared in $400,000 Suit

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP)—General Motors has been cleared of responsibility for the performance of a 1960 rear-engine Corvair involved three years ago in a double highway fatality.

A Santa Clara County Superior Court jury ruled Tuesday in favor of the defendant, General Motors' the world's largest car manufacturer.

The plaintiff, Mrs. Doreen Collins of San Jose, Calif., sought $400,000 on the contention a faulty 1960 Corvair caused an accident which resulted in the deaths of her daughter, and her fiancé.

Mrs. Collins, 39, charged that "defective design" of the Corvair's rear-swing axle caused it to go out of control and collide with a truck Sept. 13, 1962, near Merced, Calif.

Her attorney said the verdict was the first in 500 lawsuits across the country — representing $150 million in claims — involving Corvairs manufactured between 1960 and 1964.

COMING COINS — Britain plans to mint new coins bearing likenesses of Queen Elizabeth II and Sir Winston Churchill. The Churchill coin, a crown worth 70c, will be the first honoring a commoner since the rule of Oliver Cromwell three centuries ago.

Newcombe to Conduct Whistle-Stop Campaign

Lloyd A. Newcombe, Republican candidate for the 43rd Senatorial District will be conducting a modern "Whistle-Stop" campaign throughout Ulster, Orange and Sullivan Counties.

Reminiscent of scrapping candidates of the past who carried their candidacy to the people from the back of train platforms, Newcombe will be greeting area voters from the rear of a simulated train platform. This conveyance, though, has been built on a truck body for mobility, and was especially designed and constructed by a group of volunteers for the Senatorial candidate. The entire program, and the Whistle-Stop-Special has been planned so that citizens of the region will have an opportunity to meet Lloyd Newcombe, and so that the candidate will have a chance to say hello to the people of Sullivan and Orange Counties.

LYOYD A. NEWCOMBE

Newcombe's Whistle-Stop-Special will be touring through all of the Townships of the Sept. 14th primary. Once the primary is over, the candidate and his "meet the people" special will continue operating under a "full head of steam" until Election Day on Nov. 2nd.

Newcombe noted that "there are 246,000 people residing in the 43rd Senatorial District of which Sullivan and Orange counties are a very, very important portion. It is my intention," he continued, "to say hello to just as many people as I possibly can between now and election day."

Of special interest to residents of this area will be Lloyd Newcombe's vigorous activities as a community leader. He is president of the Greene County Industrial Development Corporation and was twice elected president of the Catskill Chamber of Commerce. He is active in the Rotary Club and has served for nine years on the Board of Education in his home community. Newcombe is also a member of the Greene County Memorial Hospital board of governors, and as a successful businessman, an active participant in a great number of other community organizations.

The Republican senatorial candidate presently has the solid

Conservation Man Dies

TROY, N.Y. (AP)—Justin T. Mahoney, state conservation commissioner from 1956 to 1959, died last night in Samaritan Hospital here. He was 77.

Mahoney, of Troy, joined the conservation department in 1911 and was appointed commissioner by then Gov. Harriman.

Resnick Guest At Signing of Saline Water Act

Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick was invited to attend the signing ceremony of the Saline Water Act which was held yesterday at the White House.

Congressman Resnick indicated that he was very honored to be invited to participate in this ceremony, especially as he is not a member of the Committee of Interior and Insular Affairs. Mr. Resnick said: "My interest in water conversion and desalting has been of long standing. Prior to my election, as head of research and development company, I was vitally interested in desalting methods and as Congressman I am, of course, deeply concerned with all aspects of water supply problems."

Mr. Resnick concluded his remarks with the statement: "This day will be a landmark in our war against drought."

The activity of the Federal government in the field of saline water conversion began when Congress passed the Saline Water Conversion Act of 1952. The objective of this program was to develop economically feasible processes for converting sea water and other saline water in quantities suitable for municipal, industrial, agricultural and other beneficial purposes.

The present Act, an amendment to the original legislation, calls for the expenditure of up to 185 million through fiscal year 1972. The act will expand, extend and accelerate progress in basic research on large scale desalting of sea water and brackish water found in inland areas.

Water shortages are a universal problem. The natural disaster of drought and the man-made disaster of pollution and waste occur in every area of the globe. President Johnson and the legislative proponents of the Saline Water Act are hopeful that technological advances in desalting will benefit not only citizens of the United States but people of other nations as well. A technological breakthrough in low-cost desalting could be the key that will unlock the door to economic growth for many developing nations.

Check Ellenville Fire

Ellenville firemen extinguished a blaze that broke out about 10:30 a. m. today in a building at 172 Canal Street in Ellenville. The fire started in the cellar and worked its way up to the front floor, where it was put out in a few minutes. No injuries were reported. Cause of the fire is undetermined.

GI's, Vets . . .

downing of an American plane over North Viet Nam by an anti-aircraft missile. A U.S. Air Force F4C Phantom jet was shot down about 40 miles west of Hanoi on July 25, and the Pentagon attributed this to a surface to air missile.

Two days later the Pentagon announced that Air Force jets had bombed the missile site from which the Phantom had been downed as well as another site. It said one site was destroyed, the other damaged and three of the attacking planes were shot down by conventional ground fire.

U.S. reconnaissance planes have located five other missile sites encircling Hanoi, but military spokesmen have raised the possibility that North Viet Nam also has mobile launching units. The missile launchers are assumed to have been installed by Soviet technicians and may be manned by Soviet personnel.

Mobilize for Big Fight
In the ground war, U.S. and Vietnamese forces in the central highlands mobilized for big operations against the Viet Cong around the embattled special forces camp at Duc Co.

There was no indication whether the Viet Cong would stay and fight or follow their usual tactic of melting away in the face of a formidable enemy.

U.S. troops of the 173rd Airborne Brigade and the 2nd Brigade of the 1st Infantry Division were flown to Pleiku Tuesday and Wednesday to back up a Vietnamese relief column which reached Duc Co Wednesday night. The camp 30 miles southwest of Pleiku had been under siege since June 3.

Ready for Action
The chief mission of the Americans was to be a reserve force. But U.S. authorities made plain they would be ordered into action if the Viet Cong launched a major counterattack.

A military spokesman said there had been no reports of further contact with the communists since around noon, when U.S. paratroopers drew small arms and machine-gun fire from a village 15 miles east of Duc Co. There were no casualties, he said, and a patrol entered the village and found it deserted.

At about the same time, U.S. informants said, the Viet Cong made a mortar attack on the Duc Co camp. Some 30 rounds of 60mm fire landed about 300 yards short of the camp, they reported.

For months the Viet Cong has dominated Route 19, the strategic east-west highway crossing the central highlands from Qui Nhon on the South China Sea to the Cambodian border at a point five miles west of Duc Co.

The American paratroopers and infantrymen after their arrival moved out along Route 19 and dug in with artillery and armor well down the highway. They established blocking positions which enabled the large Vietnamese relief force to move up to Duc Co.

Airport Secured
The Vietnamese column—scores of vehicles and hundreds of men—had suffered heavy casualties on Monday and had dug in just five miles from Duc Co to await reinforcements.

Other American units secured the Pleiku Airport.

The camp at Duc Co looked like a fortress, with scores of vehicles and tanks drawn up around it.

"For the time being anyway, our siege is over," said one of the 12 American advisers in the camp.

All were certain, however, that the Viet Cong would renew their harassment when the government force moved out.

Elsewhere in Viet Nam: A bus carrying 20 U.S. Air Force men struck a mine about four miles east of Saigon. Several airmen were cut by flying glass but not seriously, a U.S. military spokesman said. The bus was taking the men to work at an ammunition dump.

It was noted that many towns in Ulster County and elsewhere have found it necessary to adopt similar rules of procedure because of like circumstances. The new regulation has been referred to by some townspeople as a "gag rule" but the town board members felt it is necessary to prevent further delays and arguments at the business meetings.

Any person, who does not obtain permission after making the request in writing to Mrs. O'Leary, will not be permitted to address the board at any meeting in the future, it was explained by the town clerk.

The Association of Fuel Oil Dealers is expected to ask permission of the board to show a movie on the use of fuel oil in public buildings.

UCCC to Begin Registering for Fall on Sept. 14

With the approach of the fall, Ulster County Community College is making plans for its third year of operation at 214 West Chestnut Street. Ground has been broken for the campus in Stone Ridge, and it is anticipated that next fall the college will open on the new site.

Expect Over 1,000

The Ulster County Community College has steadily grown, and it is expected that over 1,000 students will enroll in the fall. This large enrollment, the largest in the college's brief history, will be divided about equally among full time and part time students. In order to meet this enrollment the college has expanded many of its already cramped facilities; the library can now seat many more students and house 14,000 volumes. A student lounge, a student activities room and a snack bar have been added to the existing facilities.

Registration has been scheduled for all full time returning students on Tuesday, Sept. 14. On Sept. 15 and 16, during the day, all new full time students will register. The scheduled time for the registration of all part time students has been set for the evenings of Sept. 15 and 16. Classes begin on Monday, Sept. 30.

Ulster County Community College offers courses in nine curriculums including Humanities and Social Sciences, Science and Mathematics, Engineering, Science, Mechanical Technology, Accounting, Business Administration, Executive Secretarial Studies, Retail Business Management, and Medical Laboratory Technology. The college will offer 127 different courses in the fall in the various curriculums. These courses will take the form of 203 class sections taught by 30 full time faculty members and several part time instructors.

Adds Eighth Faculty

The college has added eight new full time faculty members who will join the teaching staff in the fall. In addition to Nicholas Marlow in English and Donald Soltz in Psychology, the Business, Engineering and Technology, and Science areas have each added two faculty members. Raymond Hubbard and Neil Ryder will be teaching in the Business Division in the fall, and Richard B. Glazer and Richard C. Smith have been added to the Science Faculty. In the Engineering and Technology areas James R. Hadley and Hsiao-Kang Yeh have been added.

Any person interested in attending the college in the fall should contact the Office of Admissions, Ulster County Community College, 214 West Chestnut Street. Counseling and further information are available through the Admissions Office.

Reaction Is Mixed

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) — A U.S. delegation had a mixed reaction to a Brazilian proposal that Latin-American commodities be given preferential tariff treatment by the United States, a high source reports.

The source said Brazilian officials made the proposal to the delegation of U.S. senators and officials who visited here during the weekend for a first hand look at the Alliance for Progress.

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — President Chung Hee Park's forces plan to open debate Friday in the National Assembly on the treaty normalizing relations with Japan despite the mass resignation of deputies from the opposition Minjung party.

Reinstate Biaggi, Beame to Rocky

NEW YORK (AP) — City Comptroller Abraham D. Beame has sent a telegram to Gov. Rockefeller demanding that Mario Biaggi, an unpaid aide on Beame's mayoral campaign staff, be reinstated immediately to his $13,355-a-year state job.

Secretary of State John P. Lomenzo, Rochester Republican appointed by Rockefeller, fired Biaggi, a Democrat who had held the job as assistant to Lomenzo since 1963.

Biaggi's appointment as director of operations for Beame, one of the four major candidates for the Democratic mayoral nomination at the primary election Sept. 14, was announced last Thursday. Biaggi says he got a notice of dismissal four days later.

The Beame forces called the dismissal "swift political reprisal by the Rockefeller administration."

Lomenzo said Wednesday that he gave Biaggi an opportunity to take a leave of absence without pay from the state job but that Biaggi "demanded to be kept on the state payroll and ties and Oswald Jacoby was South.

West was that great expert Mr. Nameless. He picked up one of those bridge player's dreams. A hand that would make a grand slam all by itself. There was one drawback. He held the red suits and Jacoby had opened one spade in front of him.

West felt that an immediate seven bid would just get North and South to a defensive seven spades so West started to confuse matters by a takeout double.

North bid four spades and when it got back to West he merely bid five hearts and followed by only going to six hearts after North continued to five spades.

Jacoby fell right into the trap and doubled. At this point West could not stand prosperity. He redoubled. Jacoby decided that West was sitting with 12 red cards and ran out to six spades. West tried seven hearts and when it got back to him Jacoby revised his estimate to 13 red cards and bid seven spades.

West doubled and opened a diamond whereupon Jacoby proceeded to make the spade grand slam. He ruffled with the eight of spades in dummy. Led the three spot and finessed his six. Ruffled a second diamond high. Led the four and finessed his nine. Ruffled his last diamond. Returned to his hand with the ace of clubs. Drew trumps and discarded his two hearts on the long clubs.

Migrant Charged In Clubbing Man

Accused of clubbing another migrant worker on the head with a wooden table leg early today, Sam Averhart, 30, an employee on the Stanley Orchards Farm, Modena, was arrested by Highland State Police on a charge of first degree assault.

Trooper Stanley T. Roberts, who made the arrest, with Trooper Joseph Sedick after an investigation said Averhart was accused of clubbing James Louis Cook, 19, same address, as Cook was asleep in his room.

Averhart was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Linn Baker, Town of Lloyd. He asked for a preliminary examination and the case was adjourned until Wednesday, Aug. 18. In lieu of $1,000 bail, the defendant was committed to the county jail pending disposition of the charge.

Trooper Roberts said Cook was asleep in his room on the farm when Averhart entered and allegedly clubbed him on the head with the table leg. Cook was rushed to Vassar Hospital by ambulance. He was treated for a severe cerebral concussion, lacerations of the scalp and a possible skull fracture. He was unconscious when admitted to the hospital.

It was reported his condition is critical. The arrest was made by BCI Investigator L. M. Luongo.

Today's Business Mirror

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Rising retail prices on food and other consumer goods or services worry many families today.

Businessmen and manufacturers fret at the steady climb in costs of first one and then another industrial material.

Troubles Loom

And the future holds still more troublesome possibilities. One is the threat of still higher production costs under new labor contracts that might set off general price increases in basic industries.

And another is the effect of more government spending for the Viet Nam war when the economy already was at a point that some thought dangerously near overheating.

The gradual rise in prices, both at consumer and industrial levels, has been cited by government economists as one reason they think more inflation isn't a clear and present danger.

Another reason for confidence has been the belief, widely held in and out of government, that the economy was due to take a breather, postponing inflation problems.

But more private economists, especially in banking circles, are sounding warnings today that any sizable climb in economic expansion now, as contrasted to the letdown expected earlier, could bring on an inflationary turn that would nullify much of the gains.

In addition to more spending because of Viet Nam, these scientists cite the increased outlays shaping up as various government programs looking toward the "Great Society" build up steam.

No Runaway Prices

So far, the price advances haven't been too alarming. The increased cost of living is real enough to families trying to balance their budgets. But there has been no runaway.

Industrial price gains have been in such things as metals. This increases the cost of manufacturing many items that consumers and industry use. But corporate profits have been so good, and competition still so keen, that most manufacturers have been able to absorb the higher metals costs without raising the price tags on their finished products.

The chief worry now is that the pooling powers of competition might be lessened. They could be if the Viet Nam war grew large enough to put a premium on some goods and materials. And competition might be less of a brake on prices if consumers continue in the spending mood that sends

TV Reviews, Best Bets

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — A worried-looking aide hurried into the office of his executive producer Tuesday, clutching a cigarette case.

The case, a prop to be used in one of several spy series currently in production, was really a concealed gun.

"I just don't know about this piece of business," said the aide. "He's supposed to flip the case open, but instead of getting a cigarette, he shoots the heavy."

"So?" said the producer calmly.

"So, won't we get a scream from the cigarette sponsor? They yell every time we don't handle a cigarette reverently."

The producer mused. Consequently, when the episode reaches television screens, the cigarette case probably will be a wallet or a cigarette lighter.

Automobile sponsors deplore stories involving traffic accidents. Aspirin bottlers want headaches avoided and, presumably, a manufacturer of wash-day products would avoid association with a series laid in a Chinese laundry.

On the other hand, pet food companies like to have animals particularly those who eat the product, in the shows they underwrite. The breakfast food people think kids in the cast of their shows are just fine.

The female star of one series recently bought an expensive sports foreign car. It stands idly and hidden under sheets in her garage while she drives a low priced American stock model. The auto manufacturer became a sponsor of her series and part of the deal was her use of the sponsor's product.

There is one story about a show that lost its underwriter when it was discovered that the star smoked another brand concealed in the sponsor's package.

Rocky's Strategists Busy

Report Mixed Reaction
To State's Sales Tax

By CHARLES DUMAS
ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller's political strategists are polling New York voters again, this time to assess public reaction to the state sales tax.

With Rockefeller's approval, they have commissioned a private pollster to conduct the survey. Special emphasis will be placed on how the tax might affect Rockefeller's political future.

NOT for Public

The results are NOT intended to be made public. But well-posted sources in the Rockefeller camp report that first returns have been mixed. It seems that in New York City, where a four per cent local sales tax had been in effect, addition of the state levy stirred little emotion among the tax-paying public.

Resentment has run high, however, in communities where there had been no sales tax or where the local tax was relatively low.

A generally negative reaction had been expected. Since Rockefeller first proposed the tax, last January, he has received more than 11,000 letters protesting the idea and only 51 supporting it.

What is disturbing Rockefeller's political strategy board, however, is a detectable tendency of the average voter to blame the tax directly and exclusively on the Republican governor.

Labeled 'Rocky's Tax'

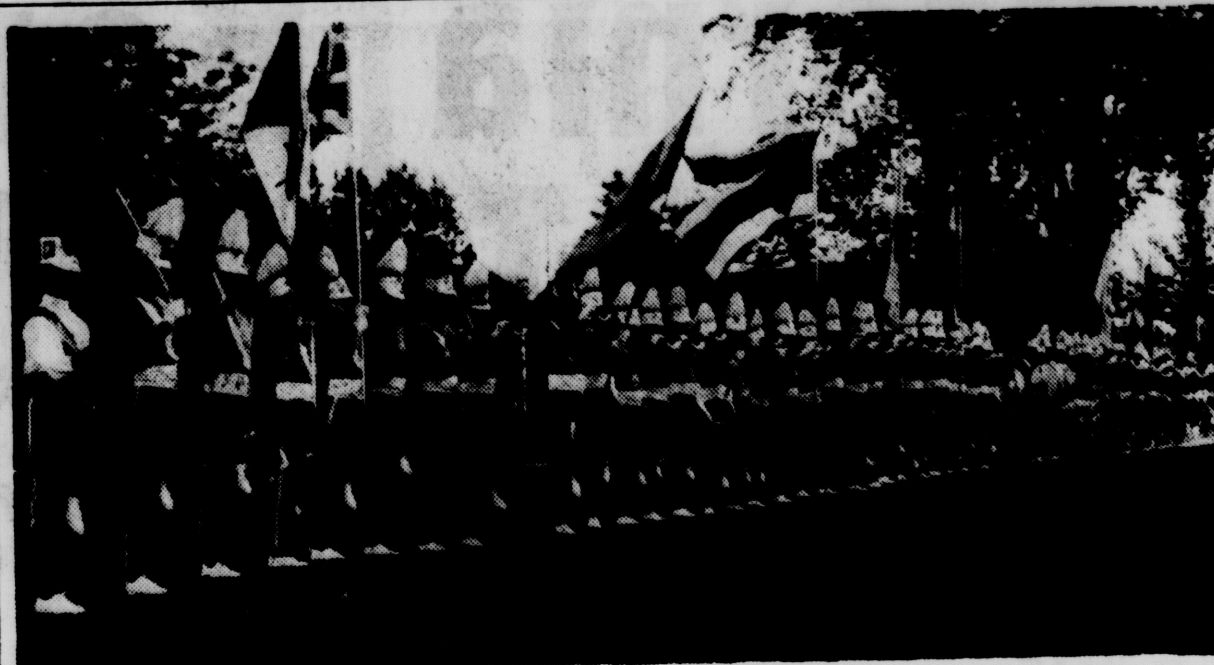

Even though the Democratic-controlled Legislature endorsed the plan, many New Yorkers have taken to calling it "Rocky's tax."

And it is becoming common practice for merchants or clerks to deduct the tax with the comment "... and a cents for Rocky."

That sort of thing is bound to strike apprehension in the heart of any politician, Rockefeller, who hopes to win re-election next year, is no exception.

The governor has been advised to hammer away on the theme that the tax is a "necessary evil" to provide more money for the schools and other government services.

Over and again, he will tell New Yorkers that he doesn't like the tax, either, but that he really had no choice.

The Toronto Optimists are slated for junior corps meet at Dietz Stadium, August 28.

Canadian Corps Add International Flavor to Meet

The Toronto Optimists, Canadian National Junior Champions Drum & Bugle Corps, will provide an international flavor at the Pow Wow of Junior Champions Drum & Bugle Corps competition August 28.

Began in 1952 as a unit of The Boy Scouts Association, the Canadian Corps was taken over by The Optimist Club of Toronto, Inc., in 1955 as part of their boy's work activities. This year the Optimists celebrate 10 years with this club.

In 1958, after some reorganization, and a change of uniform design, the Optimists entered their present Junior "A" Class. At the conclusion of this year they captured the Junior "A" National Championship title, and have successfully defended this championship of seven consecutive years.

Since 1958, The Optimists have travelled over 50,000 miles throughout Ontario, Quebec, and the Northern and Midwest United States appearing in such cities as Chicago, New York, Jersey City, Pittsburgh, Milwaukee, Rochester, Ottawa, Montreal, Shawinigan and Quebec City.

Council proceeds from the Pow Wow of Junior Champions Show will go to the Camp Tri-Mount Improvement Fund. Tickets for the Pow Wow are available in Kingston at Rossi's Music Store, Shapiro's Paint Store both on North Front Street, Neko's Pharmacy, Wall Street, and the Rip Van Winkle Council Office at 260 Fair Street. In Saurteries tickets may be obtained at P. C. Smith Hardware Co., Main Street. In the New Paltz area tickets are being sold at the Trailways Bus Terminal, Main Street.

Pensacola Gets 1 1/2-Inch Rain

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It was a little cool in some spots in the central and northern Appalachians today but seasonably warm weather prevailed in most other parts of the nation.

Showers sprinkled scattered sections along the Gulf Coast and in parts of the Far West but clear skies were reported in most other areas. Amounts of rain generally were light but nearly 1 1/2 inches fell in a six-hour period at Pensacola, Fla.

Warm air spread into the northern Plains Wednesday and temperatures soared to 100 degrees at Huron and Philip, S.D., and 95 at Bismarck, N.D., and Denver. The mercury again hit above 100 in the southwest desert region.

Temperatures generally were near or above normal except for the cool belt in the Appalachians. Early morning readings ranged from 45 at Phillipsburg, Pa., to 93 at Needles in the California desert.

Rests After Swim

CAPE VINCENT, N.Y. (AP) — A 21-year-old graduate student rested in a hospital today after completing a 21-mile-long swim from Kingston, Ont., to this Jefferson County community on the St. Lawrence River.

Thomas Fitzgerald of Cape Vincent required 16 hours to make the trip in rough waters where the temperature was recorded at 54 degrees. He stepped ashore Wednesday night and was taken to Mercy Hospital, Watertown, for observation. Fitzgerald, a student at Clarkson College, was accompanied by friends traveling in a boat.

Cuban Has Own Cell in Jail For Protection

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A Cuban exile charged with piracy of the coastal freighter Seven Seas and the murder of five fellow seamen has been placed in a cell alone "for his own protection."

At no time will Roberto Ramirez, 35, be allowed to mingle with other prisoners, said Sgt. Harold Adams of the county jail, "because of the circumstances of the case."

Ramirez, a muscular, dark-skinned Cuban national, was taken to the 8x10, windowless cell Wednesday night after the federal government decided it had jurisdiction over the slayings aboard the Seven Seas.

A U.S. commissioner signed the warrant and a hearing was set for today.

Starts Over Castro

The violence aboard the Seven Seas started, Ramirez reportedly told federal authorities, when the captain and the crew threatened to report him for favoring Cuban dictator Fidel Castro.

The captain was shot to death on the bridge and thrown overboard. Three crewmen were shot in their sleep, and a fourth was killed and thrown into the Atlantic Ocean off the Florida Keys.

The only crewman to survive was Burgess Elwin, 17, who covered in a chainlocker after he saw one shooting. He was rescued when the Coast Guard spotted the freighter drifting up the Gulf Stream Sunday afternoon.

A sixth crewman, the cook, apparently drowned when he jumped overboard to escape Ramirez.

Runs Out of Fuel

For two hours Ramirez tried to sail the Seven Seas, apparently south toward Cuba where his wife and three daughters still live. The Coast Guard believes he had to abandon ship when the main tanks ran out of fuel and he didn't know how to switch to the full auxiliary tanks.

Ramirez was picked up early Tuesday 50 miles south of Miami in a 14-foot skiff from the Seven Seas. He carried a loaded .38-caliber pistol believed to be the murder weapon and a baby food jar full of ammunition.

The immigration department held him for a day and a half while Washington officials tried to unravel the complex question of who has jurisdiction over murder committed by a resident alien aboard a Panamanian-registered American-owned ship at sea.

Asst. U.S. Atty. Aaron Foosner said he could not discuss why Washington thought it was a federal case. Officials said the Panamanian government had shown little interest in prosecution.

$2.8 Million Grant

ITHACA, N.Y. (AP) — The Ford Foundation today awarded a $2.8 million grant to be shared jointly by the Cornell University College of Agriculture and the College of Agriculture at the University of the Philippines.

Cornell said that it would receive $1,375,000 and the Philippine college $1,445,000.

The colleges have been participating in a joint program for two years.

Student Among Dead

BINGHAMTON, N.Y. (AP) — A 19-year-old Cornell University student, whose parents live in Binghamton, was among five persons killed Wednesday in an avalanche at a ski resort in Chile.

Ronald J. Hock, son of Dr. and Mrs. Ernest Hock, had been on a skiing vacation since completing his sophomore year in June, a sister, Margaret, told a reporter.

Dear Abby . . .

The Bare Facts'

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: The daughter of a friend of mine is 25 or 26 years old. She is very beautiful and a college graduate, so she can't be dumb. Well, it's all over town that this girl took a job posing for an artist who specializes in painting girls with very little or nothing on. Isn't there a law against indecent exposure and can't this girl be arrested? What can be done about it?

DEAR INTERESTED: There is, indeed, a law against "indecent exposure," but I don't know how (or if) this would apply in your community. The young lady is well past the age of consent, and if the artist is legitimate and she is his model, she has a right to make a bare living.

DEAR ABBY: I know there will be other grandmothers who will be overjoyed when the school bell rings in the fall. Then their dear little grandchildren will go back home with their parents, where they belong. Maybe some grandparents get lonely for their grandchildren. Well, I don't. If the parents would COME with their kids and take care of them, I wouldn't mind. But no, they just pack up the little ones, put them on a bus, train, or plane and SHIP them to us. Then the parents go off by themselves and vacation somewhere. I'm not blaming the kids. It's the parents who are at fault. Cooking, cleaning, washing and entertaining youngsters all summer is a big responsibility. And I'm not young any more. My husband feels the same way about it, but he doesn't want to say anything, either. We don't want hard feelings, but what do you do when you're stuck?

DEAR STUCK: Either speak up and tell your thoughtless, selfish children how you feel, or quietly accept the responsibility of looking after your grandchildren all summer. Perhaps you indicated that the youngsters were perfectly well-come. If so, let this be a lesson to those who issue insincere invitations. The meek shall inherit their grandchildren.

DEAR ABBY: I have been going with this guy for three months. He asked me to go steady with him after the third date and I said yes. I am 16 and he is 17. He is no longer satisfied with just a goodnight kiss (if you know what I mean) and I am having a hard time trying to hold him for this reason. How much more should I give him?

SWEET SIXTEEN AND NEVER BEEN BAD
DEAR SWEET: Give him a "goodbye" kiss.

DEAR ABBY: Every once in a while I will read something in your column that helps me with a problem I have, but was too lazy to write in about. Maybe this solution to a problem I solved will help another mother:

When my boys were 7 and 8, they fought each other constantly. Now, I came from a big family and we kids had our spats, but I never saw anything like the way my boys went at it. I was scared stiff they would kill each other one day. I finally got the bright idea of buying them boxing gloves for Christmas. Every time one picked on the other I made them put the gloves on and slug it out for half an hour. That was six years ago. They still have words, but no more fights. Those gloves sure paid off.

Ferroxcube Cites Three Employees For Long Service

Three employees, first hired by the company when it started in business more than 15 years ago, where cited this week by Ferroxcube Corporation of America, Saugerties, and given gifts in recognition of long service.

They are Mrs. Helen C. Carle of Malden-on-Hudson; John A. O'Connell of Zandhoeke Road, Hurley and Stanley A. Kogut of Underwood Street, Saugerties.

Each received 15-year pins and wristwatches at ceremonies in Ferroxcube offices at the Mt. Marion plant.

Last month Mrs. Irene B. Mills, the first employee hired by the firm when it started in the old General Electric plant, East Bridge Street, Saugerties, was cited and given a 15-year pin and watch.

Company officials participating in the presentation ceremonies were G. Arthur Erickson, president; Ned W. Buoymaster, vice president, marketing; Carl J. Kunz Jr., vice president, engineering.

Mrs. Carle, a senior quality control inspector, started with the firm Aug. 11, 1950 as an inspector and packer. She was reclassified as a technician B in Quality Control October 1951 and advanced to Technician A September 1955. In September 1957, she was reclassified in the same department as chief inspector and in June 1960 as supervisory inspector. In January 1961, she was named to her present position.

Do-It-Yourself Car Wash Opens Saturday, Aug. 14

A four-bay do-it-yourself car wash center, an innovation in this area, will open Saturday on Route 9W at Barclay Heights under the management of Albert J. Elias Jr.

The establishment will be known as Al's Car Wash. Developers of the new method of car washing claim you can wear your Sunday suit without fear of getting wet or dirty.

A coin and twist of the wrist activates the equipment which permits you to manually wet a car with a water-detergent mixture and apply a warm-water rinse. In another operation the motorist can use a wax-water mixture and for additional coins paper towels are provided for cleaning windshields and chrome, and a vacuum cleaner for the car's interior.

Elias claims one operation should not take more than five minutes, five for washing, five for waxing, five for vacuuming.

The new building is 30 by 66 feet and 10 feet tall to accommodate most trucks. It can accommodate four cars at one time and has eight fibreglass doors which can be closed in cold weather.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Schultz of 75 Livingston Street, Saugerties. The bridegroom is the son of Mr.

and Mrs. Thomas R. Brennan of Rt. 3, Box 104, Saugerties.

Organist for the 12 o'clock wedding was Mrs. Charles Dickman of Saugerties. Richard P. Scherer of Kingston was soloist.

White gladioli, chrysanthemums and yellow carnations decorated the church for the occasion.

Mr. Schultz gave his daughter in marriage. She wore a gown of silk organza with controlled skirt and full chapel length train. A double crown of lace and pearls held a four tier French imported silk illusion veil. She carried a cascade of white carnations with roses and stephanotis.

Miss Gail Schultz was maid of honor for her sister. She wore a mint green silk organza gown with panel back. A double bow cap held a bouffant veil and she carried a cascade of yellow and white carnations.

Mrs. George Lucente of Saugerties, sister of the bride, and Miss Diana Cacioppo of Kingston were the attendants. Their gowns were mint green silk organza and double bow caps held bouffant veils. They carried cascades of white and yellow carnations.

Thomas Hull of Quarryville, N. Y., was best man. Arthur Falk Jr., of Blue Mountain and Thomas Morrissey of Katsbaan were the ushers.

A reception for 140 guests was given at the Flamingo Restaurant, Saugerties.

The bride, who is a graduate of Saugerties High School, is employed by First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Kingston. Her husband, an alumnus of Saugerties High School, served four years with the U. S. Navy and is employed by Ferrocube Corp. of America in Mt. Marion, N. Y.

Mr. and Mrs. Brennan Jr. will be at home at Rte. 8, Box 2A, Saugerties, N. Y.

Long Island Resort Is Swinging These Days; The Hamptons

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON
AP Newsfeatures Writer

THE HAMPTONS, N.Y. (AP)

— Last year the really chic thing to do here was to go discotheque dancing at the Wharf, a picturesque shipyard barn with an incongruous crystal chandelier.

This year the chic crowd presses across the gangplank onto a noisy, smoky, congested, fishnet-draped, lantern-lit railroad barge once used to shuttle vegetables across New York harbor.

There they write on a tiny patch of mahogany to the frenzied beat of the Rascals, billed as the hottest new "rock" group in the East.

It is also chic to carom through the streets in convertibles and climb out over the door; to fly kites at the country club pool; to crash houseparties after 2 a.m.; to sleep 40 winks on the floor of somebody's cottage and start all over again.

The Hamptons on Long Island, site of summer homes for moneyed people, have always been chic and colorful with miles of dunes, beaches, fishing boats, windmills, and high-hedged estates hiding old mansions and sprawling, imported lawns. It was always chic but somnolent until it became very chic to have fun day and night. Hamptons are chic and swinging.

Oldtimers dispair the steady encroachment of motels and cooperative hotels; beer cans in roadside gutters; parked cars filled with sleeping, party-exhausted teenagers too broke to invest in a night's lodging.

As raspy-voiced, piano-tinkling jet set favorite, Hugh Shannon, explains it, "All of a sudden Prince Miguel was on the doorstep with about 100 pieces of luggage and a lovely companion and with no place to go but my house. We managed, though."

So did Carol Channing and husband, Rona Jaffe, and friends, etc. etc. The Shannon seaside cottage is always bulging and bouncing with international fun-loving celebrities.

Friday's night life get a slow start after the Long Island Railroad Club have disgorged the last commuter and the sports cars of affluent New Yorkers have tediously crawled through two and a half hours of traffic.

On Saturday and Sunday it starts at noon and lasts till dawn.

It is very chic for ladies to wear bellbottom trousers and lace pajamas to the discotheques; hair long and straight; false eye lashes; cowboy hats; sandals by night and bare feet by day; bikinis at poolside — but never in the water.

It is very chic for men to wear open-necked shirts and ascot ties, blazer or madras jackets and loud slacks bought at a men's store that has blue polka dotted awnings.

It is very chic at The Hamptons.

TEACHING ETIQUETTE TO CHILDREN INVOLVES PATIENCE, CONSISTENCY

I am often asked how to teach rules of etiquette to children or teen-agers, and whether there are particular rules which they should be taught. The most important thing to realize is that etiquette applies to everyone, old and young, and that the best way to teach etiquette to children is the best way to teach anything—by precept, consistency, firmness and example.

Children who are spoken to in baby talk and treated as if they were adorable idiots are inclined to act like babies. But children who are treated as interesting individuals with minds of their own will react by trying to show that they are bright and they are individuals. Children can scarcely be too young to be taught the rudiments of etiquette, nor can the teaching be too conscientiously carried out. Any child can be taught to be well-behaved with no more effort than patience and perseverance, but to break bad habits once they are acquired is a Herculean task.

Who Greets Who?

Q: When a girl is walking down the street and sees a boy she knows, is it up to her to greet him first or should she wait for him to say hello to her?

A: In theory, he should be the first to say hello, but no one today pays any attention to this rule.

Conditioning Is Set at New Paltz

Head football coach William Freer of New Paltz High has announced the start of a five-day conditioning program for football candidates starting Thursday, Aug. 26, at 6:30 p. m. at the high school field.

Approved by the New York State Education Department, the program is designed to prevent football injuries through pre-season physical conditioning.

Larry Johnson, director of athletics, said candidates need the approval of their parents and a physical examination to be eligible to participate. Physical examinations are scheduled as follows: Wednesday, Aug. 25, 1-2 p. m. and 7-8 p. m. in the health office of the central school.

Candidates for the cross-country squad must also have physical examinations prior to the first practice on Sept. 1. The physicals may be taken at the same time as those for football players.

Former Kingston Hurler to Play In Night Game

A legendary figure out of the local baseball past—Billy (The Kid) Ostrom of Poughkeepsie—will share the spotlight with another colorful performer, Jimmy Piersall of the Los Angeles Angels of the American League in Fred Davis' baseball extravaganza Monday at Dietz Stadium.

Piersall, accompanied by his 11-year old son, will conduct a baseball clinic for all youngsters up to 19 starting at 3 p. m. At 8:15 p. m. the Kingston Braves take on the Poughkeepsie City League All Stars and Piersall will take part in pre-game ceremonies.

Piersall is Davis' former batboy during the war period at Waterbury, Conn., who went on to major league fame with the Boston Red Sox, Washington Nats and now the Los Angeles Angels.

Nielsen Doberman-Pinscher Rated Dog With Big Future

A six-months old Doberman-Pinscher puppy owned by Robert Nielsen of Hurley has all the qualities to become a Best in Show dog in his class.

At least one of the nation's finest Doby trainers, J. Monroe Stebbins of Long Island, has agreed to train the Nielsen dog with just that in mind.

Named Bikinis Cotton Candy of Muse, the puppy is out of Ch. Dictator and Ch. Patton's Dobe of Torn and Rancho Dobe's Manana.

Stebbins, who has handled many champion Dobs in a distinguished career, is enthusiastic about Bikinis, the first puppy he has worked with in more than 25 years. He predicts the dog will be the greatest to come along in many years.

Bikinis Cotton Candy earned the rare distinction of winning in three point shows at the tender age of six months, an unprecedented feat in the show dog world. He was Reserve winner twice at Bucks County and Scranton in Pennsylvania, both major dog shows.

An exacting future is being planned for Bikinis. He will be shown at the Dobe Dog show at Purchase, then the Westchester show which attracts 3,000 entries and finally, the big one (Westminster) at Madison Square Garden.

Stebbins feels that Bikinis can place in the Westminster, a feat that would make canine history. By 1966, Stebbins says, Bikinis could go all the way as Best in Show and dominate the Doberman-Pinscher field for years to come.

Lieutenant Val Wins at Big M

MONTICELLO—Last night's featured fourth race at Monticello Raceway, a $1500 two-year-old pace, was won by Lieutenant Val in 2:10.4. The time was a long way from being close to the local season's mark of 2:05 held by Mountain Adios but it was significant in the sense that it was Lieutenant Val's first victory and another win for Bradbury, currently the second leading percentage driver at the meet.

Owned by the M.P.I. stable of New Hyde Park, N. Y., Lieutenant Val had to overcome much road trouble and an outside post position in posting the win. Bradbury got the Prince Victor—C.O.D. youngster away last and then had to send him four wide around the final turn and through the stretch before getting up for a half-length triumph.

Second in the juvenile education event was Harley's horse, Will Carr driving, while show honors went to J. F. Brook with Joe Faraldo abroad.

In breaking his maiden, Lieutenant Val returned $5.20, 3.60 and 3.00 across the board.

Last night's 1 and 1 daily double paid $19.80 when Bob Frame won the first behind Taft Dares and then Russ Palmer took the second with Lucky Mimi.

The twin double paid $478.40. Winning combination was 2-7-4-8. Last evening's perfecta paid $11.60. Winning combination was 2-1.

A crowd of 5,176 was on hand to wager $308,064.

No. 16 Finally for Drysdale

Dodgers' Ace Makes It After Six Attempts

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Playing against the New York Mets apparently can be as dangerous as playing for them.

The Mets began to rub off on the Los Angeles Dodgers in the eighth inning Wednesday night and Don Drysdale had to survive three errors and an I'll-take-it-you-get-it routine before subduing New York 1-0 for his first victory in 24 days.

Drysdale was working on a four-hitter and protecting a 1-0 lead for the National League leaders when the Dodgers started to fall into the Mets' pattern. John Stephenson led off the Mets' eighth with a grounder to first base but Wes Parker fumbled the ball for an error. Chuck Hiller, however, came through in Met style, bunting into a double play. But it was only seconds before Drysdale was in trouble again.

This time, Ron Swoboda grounded one to second base but Jim Lefebvre let the ball roll through his legs for an error. Right fielder Ron Fairly, backing up on the play, raced in — and also fumbled the ball as Swoboda took second.

the Langhorne International later in the season. Sportsman Modified drivers are expected to flock to Ontario in large numbers. The qualifying race for Langhorne is scheduled in then near future. Drivers must have appeared at Ontario at least once prior to the Langhorne qualifier in order to be eligible.

Jim Moffat returns to the Hoosier's box with this week's events, ending a two-year retirement. Gates open at 6:30 p. m. and there is ample free parking.

Dodgers collected 14 hits off Harold Johnson, who fanned eight. The champions climaxed their season's play with a 9-run barrage in the fourth inning.

Don Nichols hit three singles and Joel Halwick had two. Charles Piratzky came up with a single double combination and Gus Constantinou added a two-bagger. Ed Stevenson and Neil Rausch accounted for the Indians hits.

Namath on Spot With Military And Rival QBs

NEW YORK (AP) — Will Joe Namath is barking "Hut, Hut" as a $400,000 quarterback awaiting the snap from center or marching to that cadence as a $78-a-month member of Uncle Sam's team?

That became a pressing question when Namath, locked in a three-way battle with holdover Mike Taliaferro and Heisman Trophy winner John Huarte for the No. 1 quarterback position in the New York Jets, revealed Wednesday that he might be drafted into military service in the near future.

The 22-year-old former Alabama standout was scheduled to take his physical examination Tuesday at his home draft board in Beaver Falls, Pa., but his papers were transferred to Peekskill, N.Y., where the American Football League club is training.

According to a spokesman for the Jets, Namath now is scheduled for a pre-induction examination on or about Sept. 1. Induction would likely be imminent if he passed the physical.

Meanwhile, a spokesman for Peekskill's draft board No. 12 said Namath would go on a waiting list and that it was "doubtful" he would be called for an examination in September or even October. By then Namath will be a resident of New York City and another shift will have to be made.

Find Clue To Pizarro

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Al Lopez may have solved the enigma of Juan Pizarro's on-again, off-again fast ball but the Washington Senators don't have a clue.

Pizarro, mystery man of Lopez' Chicago White Sox pitching staff, baffled the Senators with a one-hitter Wednesday night as the Sox won the second game of a doubleheader 7-0.

The Puerto Rican southpaw, a 19-game winner in 1964, had failed to finish in nine previous starts and had won only one game — exactly two months ago against Washington — before his one-hitter.

Pizarro's ineffectiveness mystified Manager Lopez until it was traced to a torn triceps tendon in his left shoulder late in June. He went on the disabled list for 30 days and the rest apparently has worked wonders.

Held Is Spoiler

Pizarro's fast ball was humming against the Senators. Woodie Held, who had paced Washington to a 5-2 first-game victory, got the only nightcap hit — a lead-off single in the fifth inning. The only other Senators to reach base were Don Lock and Don Zimmer, on walks in the first and eighth, respectively.

It was the third American League one-hitter among 13 pitched in the majors this season and all three have been against the Senators. Held got the only hit off Cleveland's Luis Tiant June 16 and Lock deprived Detroit's Dennis McLain of a five-inning no-hitter in a rain-abbreviated game July 3.

She swept all three races Wednesday, recovering fully from third, sixth and fifth-place finishes respectively in the three races Tuesday.

Other finishers, in their order of finish, were: Bruce Bussan, Toronto; Steve Rotter, Northern Lake George; O.H. Blouin, Ottawa, Ont.; John Dunkin, Port Credit, Ont.; and Doug Lamont, Montreal.

Titan Blast Probe Will Take 10 Days

By ED SHEARER

SEARCY, Ark. (AP) — The Air Force says it will probably be at least 10 days before it's known what caused an explosion and fire in a Titan II missile complex, killing 53 civilians.

A 30-man investigation team continued today its inspection of the blackened launch tube of America's mightiest ballistic missile — scene of the worst tragedy in the history of America's space and missile systems.

Secretary of the Air Force Eugene M. Zuckert and an Arkansas congressional delegation went into the underground complex Wednesday, but returned to Washington without revealing any findings.

Zuckert said it will probably be 10 days to two weeks before "we have the answers to the questions now being asked."

He toured the site with Sens. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., and John L. McClellan, D-Ark., Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., and Gov. Orval E. Faubus of Arkansas.

Only two of the 55 workmen who were modifying the silo's physical plant survived Monday's explosion and fire.

"There will be no progress report on the investigation," said Capt. Douglas Wood, public information officer for Little Rock Air Force Base. Until "they come up with a probable cause or a definite cause."

A board headed by Brig. Gen. C. B. Stewart from the office of the inspector general is handling the investigation because, Zuckert said, "this is in connection with the missile program which cuts across more than one command."

Zuckert said there was a possibility of an "investigation board from the Strategic Air Command, but this has not been definitely decided."

The investigation is being held to determine what went wrong and to determine what added safety factors might be needed, he said, adding: "I will report our findings to the President."

The modification program on missile sites has been stopped by the Air Force, pending the investigation. The 54 Titan II sites are scattered in clusters of 18 around Little Rock, Ark., Tucson, Ariz., and Wichita, Kan. They were completed in 1963 at a cost of more than $400 million.

The 150-ton missile, capable of carrying a 24-megaton atomic warhead 18,000 miles an hour to targets 6,000 miles away, was in the launch tube Monday, but did not burn.

Expressions of sorrow and sympathy for the families of the officials came from the Washington offices. Churches are remaining open in this central Arkansas town of 8,000 for prayers for the victims.

Mills said the delegation did not see all of the complex, "but we saw enough to know that it was horrible."

There are numerous safety devices in each Titan silo — temperature and humidity controls, electronic systems control, automatic sprinkler systems to fight fires, pressure control systems and others.

Hits Car, Leaves Scene, Gives Up Troopers Report

A Brooklyn youth was driving north on Route 209 in the Town of Marlborough late Wednesday morning when he ran into another car, sped away, abandoned his own car, hitchhiked to Kingston, started worrying and surrendered himself at state police headquarters.

This was the report today from Lake Katrine substation, which stated that Alan Hashar, 19, of Brooklyn, has been charged with leaving the scene of an accident.

The report said the car Hashar was driving struck the left side of a vehicle driven by Nick Savatky, 74, of RD 1, Stone Ridge, who was headed south on Route 209.

Hashar apparently continued driving north and abandoned his car several miles up from the place of collision. He told police he later hitchhiked to Kingston, started worrying about what he had done and headed for the substation to await charges.

Hashar's car, which was owned by his father, was found abandoned off Route 209 by authorities in the Ulster County Sheriff's office.

The Curtis String Quartet, one of the oldest in the country, was founded in 1927. Jascha Brodsky, Orlando Cole and Max Aronoff of the original quartet are still playing and with them is Geoffrey Michaels, second violin.

At mid-point in its 50th anniversary season the Maverick concerts of Woodstock can look back with satisfaction and ahead with pleasure. Capacity audiences have attended the eight concerts given so far and on Sunday afternoon at 3 p. m. the Maverick Hall will be filled with the sounds of the famous Curtis String Quartet.

The program will include Juan Arriaga's Quartet, an appealing piece of quasi-baroque music; Brahms' Quartet No. 1, and the rarely heard Il Tramonto (The Sunset) by Respighi, composer of the Fountains of Rome. This setting of the poem by Shelley for voice and strings will feature guest soloist, Carolyn Stanford, mezzo-soprano.

Gladstone Shows Art of de Diego

An important exhibition opens this Saturday, Aug. 14 at 3 p. m. at Gladstone Galleries in Woodstock, presenting the work of three top artists: Julio de Diego, Ru Israel and Hilton Leech. The one-man shows of these distinguished painters will be on display at the galleries from Aug. 14 to 27.

Julio de Diego has had a long and brilliant career as a mural painter, illustrator, scenic designer, engraver, water colorist and designer of exquisite jewelry. His versatility and creativity in his performance in the arts is widely known. In 1954 de Diego was president of the Artists' Equity Association. He has taught and lectured at the University of Denver, the University of Florida, Syracuse University, and last year as artist-in-residence at McNay Art Institute in San Antonio, Texas, under a Ford Foundation Grant.

The paintings of Julio de Diego are in the permanent collections of the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York; the Art Institute of Chicago; the Phillips Memorial Gallery in Washington, D. C.; the Santa Barbara Museum, Calif.; the Walker Art Center, Minneapolis; and the Milwaukee Art Institute. The paintings now shown at Gladstone Galleries include some recent works, exhibited for the first time, as well as some from an earlier period, including "Armada" series.

Ru Israel, a native of Rotterdam, Holland, has lived and painted in the United States since 1938. In Holland he studied at the Lyceum and the Art Academy of that city, then at the Hague. He studied with Professor Willem van den Berg, Director of the "Rijksacademie" in Amsterdam, and later with studio groups of young Dutch artists. Ru Israel has participated in international exhibitions abroad and in this country and has been honored with numerous one-man shows. He has won prizes for his paintings and engravings at Syracuse, N. Y., at the Philadelphia Art Alliance, the Sarasota Art Association; the Lowe Gallery, University of Miami; the Manatee Art League at Bradenton; the Currier Gallery in New Hampshire.

Hilton Leech has exhibited extensively throughout the country, winning many awards and honors in national exhibitions. His paintings have been exhibited at the Metropolitan and Whitney Museums in New York, the Albright Gallery in Buffalo, the Chicago Art Institute, and the National Gallery and Corcoran Gallery in Washington. Leech's work and methods have been featured in the American Artist Magazine and he has been guest instructor at a number of art schools and art societies. He is director of the Hilton Leech Art School at Sarasota and at Virginia City, Montana. He was honored recently by special invitation to exhibit in London with the top American water colorists at the British Society of Painters in Water Colours; and in spring of this year, Leech's painting was awarded the Samuel F. B. Morse medal, at the 140th annual exhibition of the National Academy of Design in New York, in honor of the founder of the academy.

The Horticulture Division there is "The Art of Growing," divided into nine classes, open to the public.

Class 1, Window Jewels, potted plants both foliage and flowering in 6-inch pots; Class 2, Geraniums, scented or flowering, pots not to exceed six inches; Class 3, Rex Begonias, pots not to exceed six inches; Class 4, Desert Beauty, cactus or succulent dish garden not to exceed 14 inches; Class 5, Roses, hybrid tea or floribunda; Class 6, Tuberous Begonia, one bloom with foliage; Class 7, Herbs in uniform white pots not to exceed three inches; Class 8, Herbaceous perennials, Gaillardia, — one bloom, shasta daisy—three

Charter Commission, Manager
Proposed for Dutchess County

Recommendations for the creation of charter commission and the approval for a full-time county executive - administrative head, have been submitted to the Dutchess County Board of Supervisors by a Citizens' Committee headed by Herbert Witel-tels.

The committee feels that a county administrator would provide the county with the immediate needs and furnishing long-range planning to a much greater degree than is presently possible under the present form of government. The committee noted in a report that the enormity of county business, a budget of more than $10 1/2 million, compels a manager.

Will Seek Post Of Supervisor In Ulster Town

ROBERT STEDJE

Justice of the Peace Robert Stedje announced today he will seek the office of supervisor in the Town of Ulster. During the past five and one-half years, a period of active expansion in the Town of Ulster, he has served as justice of the peace and member of the Town Board.

Stedje is seeking the Republican nomination of supervisor, an office now held by Alexander J. Banyo who has indicated he will not be a candidate for re-election. The Town of Ulster Republican Caucus will be held Sept. 11 at the Chambers School at 7 p. m.

Harold E. Keator Jr., a 28-year resident of the Town of Ulster, announced his candidacy for the post of supervisor on August 4.

When asked for comment, Stedje said that he had hoped Banyo would be a candidate for supervisor again. However, as Banyo has indicated that he would not be a candidate, a substantial number of the townspeople have expressed their concern that the continuity may be lost in the solving of numerous town problems, such as water, sewage, zoning, and dust control. He said, "These people have encouraged me to seek the office of supervisor because of my familiarity and interest, in the hope that solutions may be found to these problems that are both complex and costly without undue delay or cost, and within the ability of the townspeople to pay for these services."

Honored by Jaycees

Justice Stedje resides in Sunset Park with his wife Pat, a former teacher in the Kingston School System, and two daughters, Anne and Barbara. As a resident of the Town of Ulster, he has always been active in the civic and political life of the community. He has been active in both the Young Republican Club and the Town of Ulster Republican Club, and has served as president of the latter. He has also held high office in both the local and State Junior Chamber of Commerce. In recognition of his services, the Kingston Jaycees awarded him an honorary life membership in the Junior Chamber of Commerce International. He is a past director of the Kingston Area Community Chest, and served twice as chairman in the Town of Ulster. In 1959 he was named the "Young Man of the Year" in the Kingston Area. He is a member of the Ulster County Magistrates Association and the Town of Ulster Kiwanis Club, and has been an officer in both organizations. He is an associate member of Ulster Hose Company, No. 5 Inc.

Saw Pacific Duty

Stedje attended Congers High School in Rockland County. After graduation he enlisted in the U. S. Navy, saw service in the Pacific Theatre, and obtained the rating of Aviation Radio Technician 2/c. Upon his discharge he attended Cornell University where he graduated with a Bachelor of Science Degree in Industrial and Labor Relations. After a brief period of travel, he joined the Canfield Supply Company where he has been employed for the past 15 years, and is now manager of the Industrial Sales Division.

Flushing Man Hurt

Gerald Grady, 29, of Flushing, was still in the recovery room of Kingston Hospital at noon today after reportedly suffering injuries in an accident on the New York State Thruway early this morning. Fatum's Ambulance spokesmen said the car Grady was driving ran under a tractor-trailer on the 88-mile post north of New York City. He was immediately rushed to Kingston Hospital at 2:51 a. m.

Resnick . . .

give me some recognition. When an appointment is made in my district I must be consulted. It is only in this way that I can get support on Election Day.

Recently I called the local office of the Congressman and talked to John Logan, his representative. I complained that several appointments were made in my district without my knowledge. Mr. Logan told me to . . . go to h—.

"Knowing the dictatorial attitude that Resnick displays, I must assume that he agrees with this kind of language and attitude. This is not just pay for the time and money I spent to help get this man elected. If I knew that this would be the end result of my efforts I would have preferred that Resnick lost the election. I believe that every committeeman in the county would rather lose than have this kind of man represent his party in any office."

"Now is the time for all good men to come to the aid of their party. Write to Congressman Resnick and let him know that we committeemen are not just available on Election Day. Tell him that we work 365 days a year keeping our people happy and informed and loyal and that in return we want loyalty to filter down from the top."

"Unless Mr. Resnick changes his entire approach to politics in Ulster County I will not be able to support his campaign if he is nominated."

"My advice to you, Mr. Resnick, is to get on the ball and stop trying to ruin our party for your own selfish ends. Join ranks or suffer the consequences of defeat."

Resnick, in stating that endorsement of the Conservatives is a kiss of death was of the opinion that Democrat candidates by accepting it tend to make a shambles of the two-party system in New York State. The congressman added that of six incumbent Republican house members defeated in last November's elections in New York, five had conservative endorsements.

Garraghan was out of town today and unavailable for comment.

In New York City, the executive director of the Conservative Party, Martin J. Burgess Jr., said that the reason the party endorsed Garraghan "is to see that he gets elected and not to see that someone doesn't."

Burgess said 22 candidates for the State Assembly who received Conservative Party endorsements at last November's election were elected.

As for Resnick's statement that five of the six incumbent Republican congressmen defeated last fall had Conservative Party support, Burgess said this was due to a "conflict within Republican ranks."

A resolution was passed at last night's meeting to apply to the State Traffic Commission to have the speed reduced to 30 miles an hour on Main and John Streets in East Kingston. The Board approved the letting of bids on a new bulldozer for the town disposal area. Bids will be received by 4 p. m. Monday, Aug. 23 and will be opened at 7:15 p. m. on that day at the Lake Katrine Grange Hall.

The Board was informed of a meeting of Public Works on Monday, Aug. 16 at 1:30 p. m. concerning possible traffic control lights at the entrance to Big Scot, Parsons and Howard Johnson's Restaurant.

Local PO Will Participate in Efficiency Plan

Postmaster Oscar V. Newkirk announced today that all Kingston Post Office employees will be asked to take part in the new Postal Efficiency Plan announced Wednesday, July 22, by Postmaster General John A. Gronouski.

"The Postal Efficiency Plan includes comprehensive programs for improving postal service and reducing costs," Postmaster Newkirk said. "It is our way of helping President Johnson fulfill his pledge to provide more effective and economical government services."

In Washington, Postmaster General Gronouski termed the plan's twin objectives of economy and service betterment "a matter of highest priority" and called for total involvement of all employees through the post office improvement program.

Semi-annual reports will be made to the President, Gronouski said, and realized savings will be reverted to the Treasury or applied to improving postal service.

A local committee will be organized to fulfill the two purposes of the plan: 1. Improve services. Ideas generated by individual employees will be taken up by the committee. Accepted ideas will be passed on to Washington for possible application on a national level. Employees whose ideas are adopted nationwide will be given national awards. The Postmaster General will personally oversee the programs.

Postmaster Newkirk will be chairman of the local committee to implement PEP.

Police Breakup Saugerties Beach Party; Arrest One

A routine check of a parked car at Saugerties Municipal Beach Wednesday night by a village patrolman resulted in the arrest of an 18-year-old German town youth for possession of a blank cartridge pistol and contributing to the delinquency of a minor, Saugerties Police reported.

Gary Klawson, in the company of a 24-year-old Tivoli man and two Kingston girls, one 16, the other 15, was carrying concealed a .22 blank cartridge pistol in a shoulder holster. Patrolman Harry Vickery said.

Klawson, shortly before Freeman press time paid a $50 fine on the blank cartridge pistol charge when he appeared before Village Police Justice G. Thomas Rea Jr. He pleaded innocent to the charge of giving an alcoholic beverage to a minor and that matter was adjourned until Aug. 27.

The 15-year-old was charged with violation of the 10 o'clock curfew and her father paid a $25 fine for her release. No charges were filed against the other two, Vickery said.

Patrolman Vickery said he was on routine patrol at 10:20 p. m. and checked a parked car at the beach. He saw the bulge in Klawson's coat and upon investigation found the .22 pistol. The youth also carried a pseudo police card with identification as special police agent, Bunny Agent 007.

The patrolman also found two knives in the car, one about 2 1/2 inches, another over 12 inches long. Klawson claimed he used the knives for work in the garden. No charges were filed on the knives.

Vickery said the pistol was loaded with eight rounds.

Klawson's male companion was identified by police as Egbert Rose of Tivoli. The names of the girls involved were withheld due to their age.

Returned to Lay Status

COLOMBO, Ceylon (AP)—Noel Cruz, a former Roman Catholic priest who wants to marry a Ceylonese beauty queen, has been relieved of all obligations and duties of priesthood except celibacy, the active vicar general of the Colombo Archdiocese said today.

The church official said Cruz had been returned to lay status. Cruz had been expelled from his order after he applied for release from his vows so he could marry Manel de Silva.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP)—Two copper issues, Anaconda and Kennecott, slumped today in an otherwise quiet stock market.

They reacted to news of a move to nationalize the copper industry in Chile, where they are the biggest operators.

A motion to nationalize the industry was made in the Chilean Senate, which was discussing an earlier proposal to establish a partnership between the big copper companies and the Chilean state.

Anaconda fell more than 3 points and Kennecott dropped 2.

The institutions appeared to be coming into the market as some big clocks crossed the ticker tape. Hunt Foods lost a point on a block of 104,300 shares and then shaved its loss to half a point.

The market was slightly higher at the opening then turned irregularly lower.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials at noon was off 0.71 to 880.76.

Workers Listed For Scheinman in Assembly, 110th

Earl A. Stratton, South Fallsburg banker, will be general chairman, and Joseph B. Kross, Woodbourne insurance man, will be campaign manager for "Republicans for Scheinman." The committee has been organized to support the candidacy of Louis B. Scheinman, Woodbourne attorney, as the Republican nominee for Assemblyman in district 110, according to an announcement of the personnel of the Committee, made Tuesday by Scheinman.

Scheinman has declared a primary contest against John S. McBride of Monticello in the 110th District, which embraces Sullivan County, Ulster County, towns of Rochester, Wawarsing, Shawangunk and Gardiner and six Orange County towns.

Following his return from Albany Tuesday afternoon, where he had filed designating petitions carrying almost 1100 signatures, Scheinman announced the formation of the committee in support of his candidacy, and commented on the petitions he had filed.

"I am pleased and gratified," he declared, "that so many official Republican Committeemen, without any pressure from me so willingly obtained so many signatures on my behalf. As far as I was concerned, I left it entirely to official Republican committeemen and gave petitions to no one else, except some friends who came into my office to ask for them."

Stratton, who was the president of the South Fallsburg National Bank before its merger with the Community National Bank of Liberty, now part of the Marine Midland National Bank of Southeastern New York, will head the three-county "Republicans for Scheinman" Committee.

In Orange County, the chairman is Mrs. Lucile G. Ogden of Pilgrim's Corners, and the co-chairman is Mrs. Arthur C. Hoag of Cuddebackville.

Srs. Ogden is a lifetime resident of Ulster County and is a member of the Town of Shawangunk, which is a member of the Walkkill School District 18 and has taken an active role in civic, community, and educational affairs.

Hoag is Chairman of the Town of Deerpark Republican Committee. He is an electrician by trade, and is an Assessor of the Town of Deerpark.

Decker, Elkin in Ulster

The Ulster County Chairman is Frank Decker, Ellenville Police Justice. He is an attorney and an insurance broker. He is a member of the firm of Sprague & Decker, and is a Republican Committeeman of the Town of Wawarsing.

Co-chairman for Ulster County is Jerome Z. Elkin. Elkin is an Ellenville Village Trustee and is associated with Radio Station WELV. A Republican Committeeman, he has long been active in civic and community affairs.

Chairman for Sullivan County is Thomas L. Masterson Sr., well-known civic leader of Woodbourne. With his son, Thomas L. Masterson Jr., of Liberty, he owns and operates the Laidlaw Funeral Home in Woodbourne and Liberty. He is chairman of the Woodbourne Board of Fire Commissioners.

County is Liberty attorney and Village Police Justice, Abraham M. Kleinman. Judge Kleinman is a GOP Committeeman and was Town of Liberty Republican Chairman.

In announcing the "Republicans for Scheinman" Committee, Scheinman said: "It is gratifying that so many men and women, with a high sense of civic responsibility, have offered to aid in my campaign and have pledged their full support to me."

The chairman of the Committee that will work for my candidacy and for my election after the Sept. 14 Primary," he declared, "are pledged, as I am, to providing the highest type of public service, with no entangling alliances and with no obligations to any special groups or political bosses, in behalf of the people of Sullivan, Ulster and Orange Counties, who make up our new Assembly District 110."

Open Class Horse Show at Fair Is To Begin Early

The open class horse show at the Ulster County Fair Thursday, Aug. 19, will start at 9:30 a. m.

Les Kiersted, superintendent of the Horse Department, said today that the horse judging will start at 9:30 a. m. "This is made possible," Kiersted said, "because the 4-H Club horse judging will be completed Wednesday, permitting the full day for the open class horse show."

It has been reported that some exhibitors of horses plan to arrive about noon Thursday. "This would be too late for some classes," Kiersted continued. In general the judging will follow the order which appears in the premium list and it is anticipated that all judging will be completed late in the afternoon.

If any Horse Department exhibitors desire further information they can call Kiersted at the Kiersted Ranch on Lucas Avenue Extension.

Students Over 18 May Still Get Checks From SS

Ulster and Greene County students who receive social security benefits as the children of retired, disabled, or deceased workers can continue to get the payments after age 18 if they are attending school full-time, George J. Habernig, social security district manager in Kingston, announced this week.

Under this new provision, contained in the 1965 amendments to the social security law, students can continue to receive monthly benefits until they reach 22 or complete their education, whichever is earlier, Habernig continued.

Students whose benefits were stopped when they reached 18 and who are continuing their education as full-time students will have to file a new application in order to have their payments started again. Benefit payments can be made retroactive to January 1965.

Young adults who take a full-time vocational course, as well as those going to high school or college full time, are covered by this provision, Habernig said.

In addition to benefits during the school year, payments can continue during a vacation period of up to four continuous months, if the student will be returning to school afterwards.

Habernig suggested that anyone having questions about this new provision visit or phone the Kingston social security office, located at 57 Albany Avenue.

Draft Call Set For 28 Men by 2 Local Boards

Local U. S. Selective Service

Boards No. 18 and 19 have received instructions to induct a total of 28 men from the Kingston area during September for U. S. Army service.

The local boards inducted 10 during August and conducted physical examinations for 125. Physical tests quota for September is still pending.

Board officials claim the primary drafting age in the local area is between 20 and 21, as opposed to the 21-22 range in previous months.

In Dutchess County, selective service boards have received instructions to call up 17 men for induction in September and 135 for physical examinations.

Called for physicals in Dutchess will be 45 men from the county and 90 from Poughkeepsie.

The statewide call for September is 1,021 inductees, compared with 637 this month, according to Colonel William H. Boughton, Albany, director of Selective Service in New York State.

A total of 50,405 paper ballots were sent to eight towns in Dutchess County by the Board of Elections, for voting today in those townships on the county water district referendum. Polls opened at 6 a. m.

The Town of Poughkeepsie received some 16,750 ballots. Other towns voting today and the number of ballots sent to each: Hyde Park, 3,900; Pleasant Valley, 2,900; LaGrange, 4,400; Fishkill, 4,225; East Fishkill, 3,880; Red Hook, 2,800 and Wappinger, 5,150.

Election Commissioner Robert Stevens said the proposition to be voted on today reads generally:

"Shall the resolution adopted by the Board of Supervisors calling for construction of a water supply and distribution system at the estimated maximum cost of $27 million for a delineated county water district be approved?"

Commissioner Stevens said a person wishing to vote need not have to have previously registered to vote in the last general election, providing the person meets residency requirements.

TO HEAD S-A DRIVE—Attorney Frederick H. Stang, left, former mayor of the City of Kingston, chairman for the current Salvation Army drive for operating funds, congratulates William Stopher and James Penrose, co-chairmen of the Industrial Committee for the drive. Penrose is manager of manufacturing at the local IBM plant, a member of the Advisory Board of the Salvation Army, Consistory of the Fair Street Reformed Church, the Legislative Committee of the Chamber of Commerce, the Board of Directors of the Wiltwyck Country Club, and a member of the Spring Lake Fire Department. He is a native of Archibald, Pa., and presently resides with his wife and daughter on Millers Lane Extension. Stopher was recently retired as plant manager of the New York Telephone Company, after 41 years of service. He is also a member of the Advisory Board of the Salvation Army and the Chamber of Commerce. Chairman Stang said today that the Salvation Army drive is being planned for September. He urged all citizens to cooperate in this drive. He added, "The local Corps and county service units has helped many families in the past years, and without your support could not continue. As you know we are no longer a part of the Community Chest, so the portion that you normally gave to the Chest for the Salvation Army, we now request it be given directly to our campaign in September." Rocky Defends River Expressway

NEW YORK (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller says the state department of Public Works does not plan to scar the east bank of the Hudson River in road construction.

"To the contrary," Rockefeller says, "the department of Public Works in all of its planning will work closely with the Hudson River Valley Commission, recently created at my recommendation, to enhance and, where indicated, to restore the scenic beauty of the Hudson."

The governor made the statement in defending plans for the Hudson River Expressway to run along the shore of the Hudson from Beacon, Dutchess County, to the Bronx.

Rockefeller's defense was contained in a letter to Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., which the governor's office made public. It was a reply to a letter from Javits inquiring about plans for the expressway.

Rockefeller said the route of the proposed expressway has not yet been established "and in its planning there will be—as there always is in all state highway projects—full consultation with local officials and other interested citizens and groups in the area to be traversed. Such consultations are now under way."

"The simple facts," Rockefeller continued, "are that for some time I have been importuned by local officials from Tarrytown to Croton to cause the planning and construction of a vehicular bypass which would eliminate existing traffic bottlenecks in their 'downtown' area and get Route 9 traffic through this area south from the Croton River—to which point it has already been widened—with minimal disturbance of existing residential and business areas."

"At the request of the department of Public Works, the Legislature passed a bill to enable Public Works to plan accordingly."

This Saturday is known as Shabbat Nachamu, the Sabbath of Comforting, thus called because we read in the prophetic reading of the Bible a chapter of the Book of Isaiah which begins with the words, "Comfort ye, comfort ye, my people." This reading is selected in order to bring a message of comfort and consolation to the Jewish people after the Day of Fasting and Mourning which characterized the day of Tisha B'Av, which means the ninth day of the Hebrew month of Av, was the day on which the two Holy Temples in Jerusalem were destroyed, the first by the Babylonians in 586 B.C. and the second by the Romans in the year 70. This reading of the prophet Isaiah will be read at the morning service Saturday.

Sunday morning, a breakfast will be held at 10 a. m. in the vestry hall for the workers in the fund raising campaign for the new Ahavath Israel Synagogue and school building.

Will Test Water

CAMPBELL, N. Y. (AP) — Water tests from the Conchocton River has been sent to the Susquehanna Watershed Laboratory in Harrisburg, Pa., to determine the source of pollution that has killed an estimated 30,000 fish.

The dead fish floated to the surface and lined the banks to the south of this Steuben County community earlier this week.

The water is clear above Campbell, but murky below, according to James L. Brown, a member of Corning Community College and a member of the Susquehanna watershed survey team.

Brown said the dead fish were scavengers and considered hardy enough to withstand heavy pollution.

The Conchocton flows along the New York-Pennsylvania border.

Private Meeting Slated on Erie Lake Pollution

By Richard Hendrickson Associated Press Writer

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—Conferees at a federal hearing on Lake Erie pollution were scheduled today to meet privately to formulate their final recommendations for combating the problem.

The executive session of representatives of New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Michigan, and the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare was called to discuss information gathered at hearing sessions in Cleveland last week and Buffalo this week.

The hearing closed Wednesday night without any clear agreement on the major question: whether pollution at the eastern end of Lake Erie is interstate or intrastate.

Conference chairman Murry Stein, chief enforcement officer for the federal water pollution program, said the officials would attempt to prepare a list of final proposals for a federalized program to abate Lake Erie pollution.

The Ohio, Indiana and Michigan representatives agreed last week to support the recommendations. The New York and Pennsylvania officials also have indicated their states will comply with the decision reached.

But Pennsylvania and New York spokesmen stated they believed pollution of eastern Lake Erie affected only the shores of each state and was a matter for state control.

New York's position was explained by Gov. Rockefeller, who also spoke Tuesday. He said federal antipollution action should be limited to providing financial aid for sewer treatment plant construction. Rockefeller's stand was disputed by Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., who called on the governor to ask for federal enforcement on Lake Erie of antipollution laws.

The New York representative, Robert D. Hennigan, called Wednesday for stronger recommendations than those adopted at the close of the Cleveland sessions.

Included in the Cleveland recommendations were a call for secondary treatment of all municipal waste, prohibition of combined storm and sanitary sewer systems and action to require industry to meet minimum standards on waste dumped into waterways.

He cited Watertown and Ogdensburg as having been under state pressure for years to build sewage treatment plants, but doing so only after 50 per cent federal aid became available.

Rockefeller has proposed a $1.7-billion program, including a $1-billion bond issue which will be up for voter approval in November, to aid in the planning and construction of treatment facilities.

$13,476 for Classrooms

The classrooms will be leased from the Classroom Leasing firm at $3,369 per unit a year. They will be used to relieve crowding in the seventh and eighth grades.

Broome Man Is One of 5 Slide Victims in Chile

PORTILLO, Chile (AP) — A Chilean air force helicopter was to fly to this mountain resort today to remove the bodies of five persons killed when avalanches crushed a ski lodge. Two U.S. citizens were among the dead.

Six other occupants of the lodge survived the disaster early Wednesday, brought on by warm winds after a four-day blizzard which closed the railway into Portillo.

The thaw loosened snow drifts on the mountains and sent two avalanches thundering down the slopes. Coming together, the slides buried the 33-year-old lodge beneath tons of snow and ice and collapsed its six-inch walls.

The dead included Ronald J. Hock of Binghamton, N.Y.

Porter Is Charged With Fire Plot At Grossinger's

LIBERTY, N. Y. (AP) — A porter at Grossingers Hotel has been arrested and charged with trying to set the famous Catskills resort afire.

The porter, Edward C. Mosher, 35, whose permanent address was not learned, waived a preliminary hearing. Justice of the Peace Kenneth Fiske ordered him held for grand jury action.

The hotel is about six miles away from another resort, the Prospect Inn, which burned down of undetermined cause early today, killing one person, injuring 14 and leaving three unaccounted for. Authorities, however, did not link this fire to the Grossingers case.

Firemen were called to Grossingers about 3:25 a.m. today and said they found blazes in three different spots in the main building—in the kitchen, in a linen room and in the bakery. The flames did little damage before being spotted by other employees.
